CANADA HAS FIRST CLAIM ON CITIZENS

Federal Opposition Leader Stresses Necessity of Utilizing Labor of Canadians Within the Dominion

SAYS U.S. OFFERS LESSON TO WORLD

Hon. R. B. Bennett Renews Suggestion of Conference on Intér-Imperial Trade Problems

By Staff Representative

DUNCAN, Aug. 1.—Hon. R. B. Bennett, speaking before more han 500 people this afternoon, lluded to the marked difference which characterized the handling of rade affairs in the United States and Canada.

He promised that if the Conservitives were given power, the means vailable to build up the country, ind keep Canadians employed at ome would be utilized. "Conservaives believe in home," he said.

Canada bought $100,000,000 worth f goods from the United States ind sold only $50,000,000 to that ountry. The United States raised he barrier at the boundary line, o that the tariff on products that ompeted with the United States vas so high they could not enter. In July why did they do it?" he sked. "Not because of ill will to Canda, or any other country, but beause they had a Government for he American people to protect the aborer, the artisan, the farmer. They saw to it that the American roducers' competitors were those in heir own country," said Mr. Benett, replying to his question.

Canadian farmers, in instances, ad been ruined by the American ariffs of late years. After this reatment Mr. Robb lowered the uties on foreign goods coming into anada, in the face of this condion.

Representatives of other counies at the Geneva Conference heered Senator Dandurand when e made the statement that Canda alone among the countries of ie world has lowered its tariff nce the war. They cheered beause they saw the opportunity of heir citizens selling goods in Canda in competition with Canadians.

AMERICAN FRUIT IN CANADA

Half the money being spent in ie United States by Canada could ave been paid for goods produced Canada, and this country would ave the money circulating here mong its own people, the leader aid.

Mr. Bennett referred to seeing in ie markets of the large Canadian ties American strawberries, asaragus and other farm products umped into Canada on consignent to sell for what could be got r them. This was done after the

Arrives in Victoria on Holiday Trip

RT. HON. GEORGE P. GRAHAM

Who with Mrs. Graham and their two granddaughters, the Misses Carol and Helen Graham, are visiting in the city. Senator Graham, who is one of Canada's best known public men, says business conditions in the Dominion are good, and Canadians are optimistic concerning the country's future.

OPTIMISM PERVADES DOMINION

Senator George P. Graham, on Visit to City, Says Canada Is Making Rapid Development

NOTES GREATER ACTIVITY HERE

"A spirit of optimism prevails throughout Canada today. Business conditions are good, and the country is making rapid development," said Rt. Hon. Senator George P. Graham, LL.D., of Brockville, Ontario, one of Canada's ablest statesmen, upon his arrival in Victoria yesterday with Mrs. Graham and their two granddaughters, Misses Carol and Helen Graham, in the course of a holiday trip to Western Canada.

Senator Graham, who has long been prominent in the public life of the Dominion, told a Colonist representative that he was glad to be back in Victoria again. The last time he visited the city was during the Great War.

"I have noticed a wonderful change in Victoria since my last trip here. There seems to be much greater activity in business, and a vast improvement in building. I drove around the city, and was charmed with the glorious gardens that I saw. This place is indeed

B.C. SHINGLE PRICES TO BE CUT AT ONCE

Decision Not Reached Because of the U.S. Proposal to Keep Them on the Free List

CUTTING IN U.S. GIVEN AS CAUSE

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1.—Immediate cuts ranging from 25 cents to $1.25 in export prices on British Columbia shingles to the United States, were announced today on various grades, but the change has nothing to do with the decision of the United States Senate Finance Committee to keep shingles on the tariff free list, it was said by local shingle manufacturers.

"We decided some time ago to cut our prices, effective August 1, because the United States mills had been steadily cutting prices for the past three months or more until their prices were from 65 cents to 75 cents a thousand less than ours," an official said. "Wednesday we decided that the cut would be less than at first contemplated.

"The real reason for the cut is a poor market throughout the country, due, we believe, to the fact that there is 35 per cent less housebuilding in the United States than last year. The price of cedar logs is also down, which also partly accounts for the price cut.

"It is true that some United States mills are idle. So are some of ours. Shingle manufacturing has been curtailed simply because of the poor demand," he said.

FIGHT FIRES IN ALBERTA AND ONTARIO

Another Day of Scorching Heat and No Rain Makes Danger Still More Threatening at Many Points

ACRES OF LANDS FIERY FURNACES

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—A flaring menace of fire, which has brought destruction in the bush lands and timber limits in many districts of the West, from the head of the lakes to British Columbia, during the past week, hovered over additional forest territory tonight from another day of scorching heat.

Fast-advancing flames covered new areas in Alberta and Northwestern Ontario tonight, while in the Thunder Bay district of Ontario the situation was a little more favorable, though still hazardous unless rain comes soon. Rain was predicted in the northwest district and Thunder Bay within the next twenty-four hours, but early tonight skies were cloudless, and the fire fighters fought to stamp flames from many parts of the province. Not one of the fire-ridden sections reported rain today.

Whipped by westerly winds, the fire situation in Alberta assumed more serious proportions during the day, and rangers reported the greatest menace since the ravaging conflagrations of 1919. Fifty square miles of bush lands are burning in the Lovett area of Alberta, north of Edmonton, while forty miles south of Calgary a fierce fire is raging, virtually out of control, over a wide stretch.

In Manitoba the situation was still acute, though the majority of fires are sweeping over dried-up muskeg with little damage to valable stands of timber.

HUGE FIRE RAGES

CALGARY, Aug. 1.—Relentlessly and steadily licking its way onward, the huge forest fire raging some forty miles south and west of Calgary is still proving a tremendous problem to forestry officials, for as yet it is virtually out of control. Even the most optimistic of those combating its progress have admited that while it may be checked with some degree of success, it will take a soaking rainstorm to extinguish the last glowing embers.

According to official information, very little valuable timber has been burned, but it was expected today that the path of the fire would lead through growths that can ill afford to be lost.

Matters of Importance In Cabinett

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—Important decisions may be made at the next meeting of the Cabinet which is scheduled for the coming Tuesday, August 6. To begin with, it is expected that the ministers will put the seal of approval on the selection of Canada's representative in the I'm Alone matter. There is a possibility that this and subsequent meetings will develop discussion and decision with respect to steps for encouraging trade within the British Empire.

Hon. James Robb, Minister of Finance, will arrive in Ottawa in time to attend the meeting on Tuesday. He has just made a tour of the Dominion and probably has gathered some information respecting the views of Canadian businessmen on this problem.

STILL EXPOSED BY EXPLOSION

SEATTLE, Aug. 1.—The roof of a small cottage at Riverton Heights, five miles south of Seattle, was blown off by the explosion today of a moonshine still, sheriff's deputies reported. The blast set fire to the cottage and an adjoining garage. A man and a woman were seen to flee from the fire by neighbors, the deputies stated. Later the officers found a 500-gallon still afire in the house, and an underground tunnel which was believed to have been designed as a liquor storage place.

FOREST FIRE CONDITIONS UNCHANGED

Situation in B.C. Is Still Hazardous — Menace in Interior Is Rapidly Increasing

FIRE LOSSES AS YET NOT GREAT

Five Hundred Men Are Fighting Blazes Raging Fiercely in West Kootenay District

NO change in the British Columbia fire situation was reported last night by provincial forestry officials. The fire at South Wellington, Vancouver Island, which got out of control on Wednesday night and jumped from the south to the north bank of the Nanaimo River, covered 150 acres on Thursday and was being fought by a crew of forty men. The men were driven from the first fire break they had made after the fire crossed this, but a second fire break was made farther back. Wind made fire fighting difficult.

Fire broke out in the Cedar District, south of Nanaimo, but after spreading to an area of fifty acres, it was brought under control by a gang of twenty-five fire-fighters.

NO GREAT LOSS

Although no great fire loss has been sustained on the Coast to date, the fire hazard is reported serious and every effort is being made by forestry officials to prevent fresh outbreaks, while logging camps all along the coast have special fire watchers on duty every day.

MR. HINCHLIFFE TO MAKE TOUR OF KOOTENAYS

Minister of Education Leaves on Mission of Investigation Into Incidence of School Taxation

WILL CONFER WITH THOSE INTERESTED

To investigate the incidence of taxation for school purposes, Hon. James Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, left last night on a two weeks' tour of the Kootenays.

Mr. Hinchliffe has arranged to meet at the various points visited, members of the municipal councils and school boards, so that difficulties encountered by both sides to this vexed question may be considered. These representative men, the minister states, are those who are informed upon the subject, and he wishes to secure their views and any information they may give.

The minister will hold his first conference with municipal and school authorities today in North Bend. He will visit Nelson on Tuesday, August 6, then Kaslo on August 7, Trail on August 8, and Grand Forks on the following day, meeting those interested in school taxation in each town. He expects to get back to his office in the Parliament Buildings on Monday, August 12.

Iwate and Asama Arrive From Honolulu and Japan; In Port for Short Stay

A BLUE haze hung over the Sooke hills, surmounted by the dusky orange glow of a Summer sunset as the Imperial Japanese Navy cruisers Iwate and Asama arrived off Esquimalt last evening from Japan and Honolulu en route to New York by way of Pacific Coast ports.

Fifteen rounds were fired from the Macauley Point Battery in recognition of the presence of Vice-Admiral K. Nomura, on the Iwate, flagship of the Japanese Training Squadron, which was on her first visit to this port. The Asama was here on September 4, 1915, from the coast of Mexico, and called a second time in February, 1925.

Arriving off Ogden Point, the Asama stood near on the choppy sea to allow the flagship to berth first. With the echo of whistles and loud-voiced commands from the various deck officers, the Iwate finally reached the dock at 8:50 o'clock.

Commander Leonard W. Murray, senior naval officer at the Esquimalt Naval Barracks; Mr. T. Fukuma, Japanese consul at Vancouver, and Mr. H. Iwanaga, vice-consul, went aboard the cruiser to pay their respects to Vice-Admiral K. Nomura, as a crowd of 2,000 citizens milled around the gangplank. Provincial and city police were occupied in directing the heavy automobile traffic on the docks and in directing the spectators who had assembled on the pier.

Waiting for her turn to dock, the Asama first hovered off the grain elevator pier and then near the breakwater. A strong tide was swinging the cruiser about as masthead signals in Japanese code were flashed from both ships.

From the stern of the Iwate a powerful searchlight swung over the waterfront, illuminating everything as far as eye could see, finally throwing its rays on the bow of the Asama. A party in a rowboat from the Iwate took a line aboard and

NO OUTBREAK OF REDS AS THREATENED

Action of Police Stopped Probable Clashes and All Was Peaceful in European Cities

CAPITALS REPORT ALL TO BE QUIET

The anti-war demonstrations day, sponsored by Communists organisations throughout the world, passed off in an atmosphere of peace.

Reports from capital after capital, from the turbulent Balkans to sedate Western Europe, belied expectations on the part of the police for a day of riot and on the part of Communists for a day of impressive manifestations. The most serious disturbance reported was in Canton, China, where martial law was declared for the day after grenades had been thrown in a Government factory.

AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1.—A vocal conflict between Communist speakers and the hymns of a religious denomination which elected to hold a meeting at the same place, marked an open-air meeting tonight at Carrall and Cordova Streets of the Vancouver Communist party.

After the speakers contested the air for some time, some 200 Communists formed a parade and marched up Hastings Street to the rendition of the "Red Flag."

AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—Through the principal thoroughfares of Winnipeg, 3,000 Communists, men, women and children, marched tonight singing the "Red Flag" and the "Internationale," while bearing banners denouncing war and imperialism. The parade was orderly and no disorder from any section of the city was reported.

Minister Challenged to Debate Fraser Sockeye Treaty With Gen. McRae

"THERE appears to be a great deal of lack of understanding of the provisions of the Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty, ratification of which was delayed for a year by the Federal Government during the last session of Parliament," says General A. D. McRae, M.P., who is one of the leading opponents of the pact.

"I was very interested," he says "in the defence of this treaty offered by Hon. S. L. Howe, provincial commissioner of fisheries, in a speech made at Prince Rupert. As I see the matter treaties have nothing to do with politics. They may have to be observed under a government of either party.

"The time has come to clear up, to the satisfaction of the people of British Columbia, both sides of this issue regarding the Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty. I am quite agreeable to meet Mr. Howe, the provincial commissioner of fisheries, on a public platform in this city, preferably under the auspices of such a body as the Chamber of Commerce, so that his viewpoint and that of the Federal Conservative party may be laid before the people.

"Unquestionably a treaty is wanted for the conservation of the sockeye supply. I do not believe that the treaty as now drawn is desirable and I am willing to explain my reasons. At the same time, and at a joint meeting, I hope Mr. Howe will be agreeable to voicing his standpoint so that the public can judge for themselves. I would suggest some date early in September for such a meeting."

Unfair Competition Of Other Countries Handicaps Canada

Hon. R. B. Bennett Contrasts Attitude to Oriental on Pacific Coast With Competition in Larger Field of Dominion Enterprises by Nations With Lower Payrolls, or Utilizing Mass Production

Says Home Market More Valuable Than Foreign Ones

(By Staff Representative)

NANAIMO, Aug. 1.—"You protest against Oriental labor here because of its being unfair competition, owing to the lower standards of living of these people," said Hon. R. B. Bennett, addressing a well-filled theatre tonight. "Apply this to the national life," he continued, and went on to describe the situation whereby the farmers and other producers had to compete against the products from countries where the standard of living in these lands represented little more than half the wages paid here, or as in the United States, where by mass production manufactured goods were dumped into Canada at a price to reduce the overhead costs after the supply of the United States was filled. The leader called upon the people of Canada to apply the opposition against competition of Oriental labor to the industrial situation as it applied to Canada.

In this connection, he recalled the conditions whereby raw materials were taken to the United States to be manufactured into finished articles, and then brought back at high prices. This meant their sons and daughters left this country, following the raw material to manufacture it into form, perhaps to be sent back here.

The United States Congress was considering its new tariff bill, the result would be that there would be an upward tendency in the tariff. "Are we wiser than all the rest of the world?" he asked. All other countries but Canada raised their tariffs since the war. Then danger of monopoly when the domestic manufactories were gone would bring dire consequences.

"There is just one thing to be done," said the speaker, "what was the use of talking about markets with Czechoslovakia when there was a market of $500,000,000 awaiting Canadians right in Canada? Do you men want anything more than a fair place in competition?"

He never found Canadians that asked more than this, "Are you going to lower your standards of living or give Canadians a fair chance?"

A SERIOUS BUSINESS

"In government you are playing with flesh and blood. It is not a big game as sometimes stated." Mr. Bennett met the insinuation that monopolies might be created here. "There will never be any chance under me of them getting other than a fair chance and equality of opportunity," he declared. The situation in Canada created an epic never equaled in history. Canadians must choose between dependence, and a statesman should be wise enough to see "what is going to happen just over the hill." The politican saw only what was happening in his day.

Canada, since the beginning of the year, had had an adverse balance of trade of $75,000,000. There was a favorable balance of $400,000,000 a short time ago. Yet Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was saying the country

WINDS MAKE ZEPPELIN'S TRIP HARD

Forced to Buck Through Strong Westerly Winds But Beats Northern Stormy Weather

LAST SEEN OVER MEDITERRANEAN

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Bucking strong westerly winds but beating out stormier weather to the north, the great German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, which left Friedrichshafen at 3:29 a.m. today (9:29 p.m. Wednesday E.S.T.) ploughed steadily through the air currents of Europe on its trip to the United States.

Leaving the Alps and the Rhine Valley, as she struck across the northwestern stretches of the blue Mediterranean, the Zeppelin already had sailed farther than on her unsuccessful attempt to reach America last May.

The airship is making for the open Atlantic at about seventy miles an hour. Flying at altitudes ranging from 2,000 to 3,000 feet, the Zeppelin appeared at times shaken by gusts of wind, but valiantly held to her course across France.

PASSENGERS HAPPY

The twelve passengers were happy and comfortable, according to Herbert S. Siebel, of Saginaw, Mich., special correspondent of the Associated Press aboard the Zeppelin.

From Basle, Switzerland, the flight continued past historic Belfort to Dijon, Chalon, Lyons, Valence, Nimes, near the Rhone Delta, and on out across the Mediterranean.

From the reports, it seems certain that the ship has skirted a low pressure area moving from Ireland toward the coast of Northern and Western France, and should find better weather over the Atlantic.

NOT IN SIGHT

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 2.—Up to 4 a.m. (11 p.m. E.S.T.) Thursday, the Graf Zeppelin had not been sighted from here. The night was dark, with little wind.

ALL WELL ON BOARD

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 1.—The Zeppelin works received a radio message from Graf Zeppelin just before midnight, reporting that it passed Cape de Gata, Spain, at 11 p.m. (6 p.m. E.S.T.). The Cape is about 186 miles east of Gibraltar, which the message said, would probably be reached by 2 a.m. The message concluded: "All well on board, only a little too warm. The temperature is 33 degrees centigrade (about 91 degrees Fahrenheit)."

Soviet Regiments In Revolt Seise Armored Trains

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Chang Chuan today said that two Soviet regiments had revolted to the north of Vladivostok, near Iman, and seized all armored trains.

Peace River Is Bounding In Vitality

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1. — The people of Peace River are looking directly to Vancouver as an outlet for their products and a medium of relief from their interior isolation, according to Rev. George O. Fallis, pastor of the Canadian Memorial Church, who has returned from a month's tour of the district.

Zigzagging through the whole territory, Mr. Fallis was met everywhere by "a story of eagerness for the future" and a bounding sense of vitality which could only mean success and prosperity, he said.

Crop conditions in the territory, Mr. Fallis remarked, are better than in any other district of the Prairie, due to a "million dollar" rain two weeks ago.

First Combine Has Appeared In Okanagan

VERNON, Aug. 1. — George Heggie, manager of the old land and agricultural property, now owned by A. DeJardin, of Winnipeg, has introduced the first combine into the Okanagan Valley. Thirty acres a day are going down and the output is about forty bushels to the acre. Mr. Heggie has 400 acres of wheat.

A few years ago the farm was devoted to stock raising and there was an immense acreage of alfalfa. The present system is to clean and cut the summerfallow one year and then to crop it for two. The wheat is being shipped to Vancouver for storage.

made all haste to tie one end to the dock to aid the 9,240-ton vessel in tying up. A few minutes after the boom of the 9:30 o'clock time gun the cruiser was lying complacently opposite her sister ship, her decks swarming with sailors in white uniforms and her guns muzzled with canvas covers.

Captain C. I. Harris and Captain H. L. Robertson, Federal pilots, brought the war vessels to port from Race Rocks. They had been anchored for some hours off Swiftsure Bank, Cape Flattery, on account of heavy fog, before they proceeded cautiously through the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

WELCOMED TO CITY

Admiral Nomura and officers of both vessels were given a hearty welcome to the city on the steps of the Parliament Buildings, over which hung a large Japanese flag.

At 9:45 o'clock this morning the Admiral and his staff will present their cards at Government House and at 1 o'clock they will officially call upon Premier S. F. Tolmie, cabinet ministers and Mayor Herbert Anscomb at the Parliament Buildings. The Premier, cabinet, Mayor Anscomb, and the Lieutenant-Governor's secretary will return the call aboard the Iwate at 11 o'clock.

The Japanese Consul will entertain the Admiral, his staff and a number of prominent residents of the city at the Empress Hotel at a noonday luncheon. Between 3 and 5 o'clock the Admiral and officers will be received at Government House by the Premier and cabinet ministers.

Bound for Seattle, Tacoma and Vancouver, the Iwate and Asama are expected to leave Ogden Point docks early this evening.

CANADA HAS FIRST CLAIM ON CITIZENS

American market had been supplied, and the Canadian producer was the loser.

In the East New Zealand butter was coming in and being reprocessed and sold to the loss of Canadian dairymen. New Zealand butter was displacing the local product, he charged.

The United States last year made within four and a half million pounds of meeting the supply there. She did this by excluding by tariff duties the importation of foreign goods.

"POLITICALLY UNWISE"

It was the duty of Canadians to buy her own natural products. It was politically unwise to ruin Canadian dairymen to give New Zealand, though it was a British Dominion, a market here. He advocated buying what was not produced in Canada in other parts of the British Empire.

Mr. Bennett went on to tell of the course taken by the Conservatives of putting into effect an anti-dumping regulation, which fixed at the border the value of fruits coming in, and upon which value the duty had to be paid. This was in 1926, but when the Liberals came in, because Mr. King wished to catch some votes from the Prairies, he repealed that measure. Mr. Bennett challenged Mr. King to come by way of order-in-council, of which he was so fond, to the help of the fruit and vegetable growers in Canada.

The Opposition leader spoke of the name Duncan, recalling to mind great battles fought, and victories won by the race. The presence of such a gathering on such a hot afternoon, the leader said, assured him of the interest of both men and women in public affairs.

The exercise of the Federal franchise carried a tremendous responsibility, represented by nine provinces, each with its own problems. The problems should be studied carefully.

CANADA'S PROBLEMS

A great problem had arisen of late years due to 10,000,000 Canadians living alongside of 120,000,000 people in the United States.

"I know of no country so vast in area," Mr. Bennett observed, "inhabiting half a continent, that has accomplished so much in the same space of time as the Canadian people."

In New York a traveler could not step on a train and go through to San Francisco without breaking his passage. In Canada four transcontinental trains left daily from the Eastern side for the Pacific Ocean.

This had been accomplished after great efforts in which the Conservative party had a noble part, in opposition to the pessimism of the opposing Liberals.

INTER-EMPIRE TRADE

Referring to the fact that a quarter of the population of the world dwelt under the British flag, Mr. Bennett advocated that representatives of various parts of the Dominions gather in conference for a few months, and discuss among themselves the methods of helping each other in trade. Economical units were becoming important factors in the world. They would, he said, devise ways of benefiting all parts.

"What British preference could save the fruitgrowers of Canada against dumping from the United States?" he asked. There were, however, he said, problems that could be worked out by such a conference by the minds representative of the Empire. He sometimes wondered if it was simply by chance that this race was placed in the position it was in the world.

Mr. Bennett paid a very high compliment to Mr. Dickie. He recalled an instance when, after the Senate had defeated a railway bill, Mr. Dickie made such an appeal that it was reconsidered, and the bill passed, and the railway was now in operation.

In closing his address, he wished success to the residents of Cowichan Valley. Many of them, he said, were from the Old Land, and he recalled his own experience with this class of men whom he met on the Prairies in the early days. They brought a great tradition with them, and they might well be proud of their record made in this new country.

LOCAL MEMBER SPEAKS

Mr. Dickie said Mr. Bennett and party did not come alone on a political mission, as the district gave, naturally, about four to one of a Conservative vote at the polls. Mr. Bennett, with his friends on the platform, has a desire to see the Cowichan Valley, about which they had heard.

General McRae paid a high compliment to Mr. Dickie who, he said, was just as popular in Ottawa as at home. He was always looking after his own riding.

Referring to the provincial movement, the General said there was never any division of opinion at the time with respect to Federal affairs. He had accepted, as a result of strong pressure, the position of organizer of the party in order by that way to pay a debt he felt he owed to the party he supported. The influence of women in the elections was stressed by General McRae, who contended that the mothers were most concerned with the future of their families. Women were very open to conviction and the Conservative party could, he felt sure, depend with confidence on the franchise of the women.

MR. PLUNKETT HEARD

Mr. D. B. Plunkett spoke in Duncan for the first time, and praised the work of Mr. Dickie. Both of them had whole-heartedly promised their support as speakers at his by-election campaign in Victoria, and both of them did so. He attacked the administration of the King Government, which had failed in its duty to Canada.

Sir George Perley, while not on a speaking tour, said he could not pass up the opportunity of coming to Duncan, and saying something for his dear friend, Mr. Dickie.

As a Britisher, while he wanted to buy all that could be purchased in Canada, he believed that there should be a conference of British Dominions about the world to devise ways of purchasing what could not be bought in Canada, within other parts of the British Dominions.

Sir George praised the work of General McRae as organizer, instancing his success in connection with the Winnipeg National Conservative convention.

While General McRae had been on his staff in London when he was Overseas Minister during the war, the situation was now that he (Sir George) was on the staff of General McRae.

Mr. C. F. Davie, M.P.P., presided and extended a hearty welcome on behalf of citizens of Duncan and Valley to Mr. Bennett and his company.

Reports from Nelson state the fire menace in the Interior is rapidly increasing, while the temperature registered 100 degrees in the shade. Few serious fires, however, have been reported throughout the province. The weather continues hot and dry over the entire province.

RAGING AT NELSON

NELSON, B.C., Aug. 1.—About 500 men are fighting raging forest fires in the West Kootenay district today. Most of the blazes are being confined to narrow limits, but a big fire started today at Waneta, near the international boundary line, south of Nelson. Here a monster fire that has been burning in Washington jumped the Columbia River yesterday and is burning fiercely on the Canadian side.

G. P. Melrose, district forester here, has gone to the fire to organize the crew of men there. Some 200 men are battling it. Two fires are burning on the railway construction road between Procter and Kootenay Landing. These are old blazes and are being handled by eighty fighters.

In the Lardeau country there are ten fires burning in various sections, but reports from there were not available tonight.

ON OCTOPUS CREEK

A large blaze on Octopus Creek, in the Slocan country, is being patrolled by a large crew and is throwing out clouds of smoke.

A small fire at Crescent Valley and another at South Slocan were stopped before much damage occurred last night. Reports were not available today from the boundary district.

So dense has the smoke become throughout the Kootenay district that it is impossible for the forestry airplane to make observation flights. Forest fire-fighters are being picked up in all centres and rushed to the scene of the conflagrations.

Hot weather continues, but prospects are good for showers. A high wind was general throughout the district all day.

At Waneta today the home of Arthur Johnson was destroyed in the advancing flames. The Canadian Customs office and the Great Northern station were saved. The huge blaze across the boundary is reported to have jumped the Columbia River in four places and is spreading through the Pend Oreille valley.

Trail is protecting its watershed on Violin Lake with a force of men. Over 100 men were taken from Trail today to battle the flames.

FIRE AT ARMSTRONG

ARMSTRONG, B.C., Aug. 1.—Fire, breaking out on the roadside, half a mile north of Hullcar Hall, seven miles north of the city, on Tuesday, had run four and a half miles in the direction of Enderby before noon Thursday, and destroyed a number of barns and other farm buildings, though several settlers' houses had been saved with great difficulty.

The Dominion fire warden at Salmon Arm, with forty men on fire lines, said he needed more, and if the wind rose again, the consequences might be serious. The origin of the fire was said to be a cigarette stub.

Disappearance Of Postmaster Is Cleared Up

NELSON, Aug. 1.—Mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance, two years ago, of Gerald Moynihan, postmaster at Galloway, B.C., has been at least partially cleared up by the discovery, in a fire permit book under a stone near Sand Creek Falls, of a letter signed by him, stating in part that "by the time you read this I will be no more."

The letter was discovered by David Gould, of Kimberley, while on a fishing trip at the falls. Moynihan disappeared on the morning of August 3, 1927. It is now assumed that he jumped into the falls about three miles up Sand Creek from the main government highway, and that his body was drawn into the whirlpool at the bottom and dashed to pieces on the rocks.

FATAL NOSE DIVE

FRANCE FIELD, Panama, Aug. 1.—Major Paul T. Bock, of Illinois, commander of the 24th Pursuit Squadron of the Army Air Corps, was killed today while at bombing practice over France Field. Major Bock was flying alone when his plane took a nose dive, being wrecked when it reached the ground.

HAS NO AMBITIONS

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 1.—R. T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta attorney, affectionately known to the golfing world as "Bobby," yesterday disclaimed any political ambitions in announcing he would not become a candidate for Congress from the fifth Georgia district to succeed the late Leslie J. Steele.

Unfair Competition of Other Countries Handicaps Canada

was prosperous. "In my position, I have presented the facts as they are. Consider them, and when polling comes vote as reason directs."

Mr. Bennett, on his first visit to Nanaimo, congratulated the city upon its beautiful situation. The leader referred to Mr. Dickie's ability in getting things done at Ottawa. He even won over the Opposition when he took things in hand. Mr. Bennett, referring to himself, said that in accepting the position of leader of the party, which he was asked to take, he was but trying to pay off, in part, the debt he owed the country which had been kind to him.

RESENTS INSINUATION

He resented a reference like that which appeared in an Island paper that he arrived in Victoria on a private yacht with his overcoat on, and the first thing he did was to consult the stock pages of the paper. "If you felt as I feel relative to the condition of the crops on the Prairies, and the influence that it will have upon the destinies of the people directly concerned, you would be anxious to see what the situation was there," said Mr. Bennett.

EFFECT ON COUNTRY

"He went on to say that this would have a decided effect upon the economic life of Canada. This year there would not be more than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat on the Prairies, or two and a half times less than that of other years.

He recalled the first manifesto of Sir Wilfrid Lauried, of which he had recollection. This called for unrestricted continental free trade. Fortunately it did not prevail. Had it done so, the provinces of Canada to all intents would have been states of the Union. It is a wise thing to sometimes stop and think.

"What did we do with the $1,360,000,000 that came to this country last year," he asked, "of that $1,260,000,000 went to the United States to purchase goods.

"I have a profound admiration for a government that legislates for the benefit of its own people," said Mr. Bennett, as he recalled the system of high tariffs raised by the United States. "Suppose we try it on this side," said Mr. Bennett to a chorus of applause.

In 1922, with the introduction of the high tariff of the Republican party, $100,000,000 of trade with the United States was lost to Canada.

THE DISTRICT MEMBER

Mr. C. H. Dickie, M.P.P., who was the only other speaker, made a very forcible address, calling for a policy of proper conservation of the mining and lumber resources of the province. He wished to see an attempt made to pay off some of the debt of Canada while their resources were intact. He admitted it was a difficult matter to solve the coal problem, as it was affected by the invasion of oil into the picture. But he argued that the bringing of prosperity to the country as the Conservative party under Mr. Bennett was prepared to bring about would compensate for such loss.

Mr. John Bennett presided.

This trip is Mr. Hinchliffe's second visit to British Columbia centres to investigate school costs, the minister having conferred with public bodies in Kelowna, Penticton, Vernon, Salmon Arm, Kamloops, Nanaimo and Courtenay during the latter part of April and early in May, and secured information which will prove of assistance to him with the question of settling the taxation problem, as applied to school administration, on a more equitable basis.

Mr. Hinchliffe is making his tour into the Kootenay country to gain all the information he can so that before the next session of the Legislature he may be prepared for any changes deemed necessary.

a beautiful community," the Senator said.

VASTNESS OF LAND

Senator Graham and party came West via Jasper Park. He stated that while he had many times crossed the Dominion, he was never before so impressed with the vastness of this great land, and the wonderful opportunities that it possessed.

While the crop outlook on the Prairies was not good, the farmers, however, were not discouraged. The spirit of the farmers was typified in a remark which one made to the Senator that "we had a good crop last year, and though it will be poor this season, next year's supply may be a banner one."

"One short crop cannot stop Canada going ahead," Senator Graham declared. "While the quantity of wheat will not be so large this season, the farmer will get a fair price for his produce."

SAYS LIBERALS STRONG

Senator Graham said he didn't propose discussing politics at length on his trip, but stated he didn't see any signs of weakness in the Mackenzie King administration at Ottawa. "In fact, the Liberal Government is as strong today as it ever was, and in my opinion it is increasing its strength," he asserted.

Senator Graham intimated that he would pay a call on Premier S. F. Tolmie, and Mr. T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, today. He said Premier Tolmie and himself were warm personal friends, and he looked forward to meeting him again.

LEAVE TONIGHT

Senator Graham and party will leave for Vancouver tonight, en route to their home in the East.

Senator Graham has had a long and distinguished parliamentary career. He was first elected as Liberal member to the Ontario Legislature in 1898 for the constituency of Brockville. He was re-elected in 1902, and was appointed Provincial Secretary in the Ross Government in that province. He was sworn a member of the Privy Council of Canada, and appointed Minister of Railways and Canals in the Dominion Government headed by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier on August 29, 1907. He retired from office with the Laurier administration in 1911, and was again elected to the House of Commons in 1912. In 1921 he became Minister of Militia and Defence in the Mackenzie King Government; two years later he assumed his former portfolio of Railways and Canals, and in 1925 was appointed a member of the Imperial Privy Council. In 1926 he was appointed chairman of the Advisory Tariff Commission, and in the same year was summoned to the Senate of Canada.

Scottish Workers Seriously Hit By Govt. Policy

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The sacrifices entailed by the British Government's latest disarmament move are stressed by The Daily Telegraph today, the newspaper pointing to the stoppage of work on the two cruisers, the Surrey and Northumberland; the submarine depot ship, Medway, and two submarines which belonged to the 1928 programme and for which money had been voted months ago.

Advices from Glasgow are to the effect that at least 700 men have been thrown out of employment by suspension of work on the submarine being built there. The keel of the submarine had already been laid and the frame of the hull was being advanced.

Discovery Off On Further Trip Into Antarctic

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Equipped with the latest gear, the ship Discovery, famous vessel of Captain Scott, left the East India Company docks this evening on another voyage to the Antarctic.

Her first destination is Capetown, where Sir Douglas Mawson, commander of the expedition, will join the vessel.

Sponsored by the British, Australian and New Zealand Governments, the expedition will continue the scientific investigation of the South Polar regions begun in 1911. Sir Douglas is a noted geologist with much experience in Antarctic exploration. He was with Sir Ernest Shackleton in 1907 and led the Australian expedition of 1911-14.

No Settlement In Sight Over Wage Dispute

MANCHESTER, Aug. 1. — The cotton dispute made no progress toward solution on its fourth day of stoppage. The Cotton Waste Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association assembled today and resolved to enforce notice on Saturday reducing wages by about 60 cents on each $4.85 of wages. This will add another 6,000 idle operatives to the total, which already stands at more than 500,000.

BELIEVE BOMB IS CAUSE OF BLAST

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1. — More than a score of buildings in the "Strip" district were damaged early today by an explosion. Police and fire officials believed the explosion was caused by a bomb. A three-story hardware establishment was destroyed, and fronts of buildings for more than a block were shattered. Scores of persons were thrown from their beds, but no serious injuries were reported.

PRESENT TOUR PROVES BEST

ALL SATISFIED WITH ITINERARY

"The most satisfactory tour as yet," is the verdict of Dean Sinclair Laird, director of the transcanada tour which arrived here yesterday afternoon with thirty hours of sightseeing before it.

This is the sixth occasion upon which the Dean has come to Victoria in the Summer months. In 1924 he was a delegate to the Canadian Teachers' Federation Convention here and at the dinner he promised that he would bring a party annually to this city in Summertime. Few who heard the undertaking anticipated the accomplishment of the pledge; however, each season the Dean comes back with larger parties of Canadians, together with a sprinkling of tourists from other lands.

Owing to the popularity which these parties have gained, it has been possible not only to increase the accommodation for participants, but to arrange for addresses by eminent personages at various points en route to give an educational color to the itinerary as well as strictly tourist associations. Several of such addresses have been given en route on this occasion. Dean Laird said yesterday that everything had passed off well so far and by taking the northern route homeward and by crossing the Great Lakes considerable variety would be given to the itinerary. The journey on this occasion will be of twenty-one days' duration.

Immediately on arrival a number of the tourists arranged for visits to various places. In the evening a formal welcome was given to the city by Hon. S. F. Tolmie and Alderman Adam, representing the Government and City Council.

As is expected, there are again a number of interesting personalities included in the 150 persons on this tour.

Senator Hatfield, of Yarmouth, N.S., is here with Mrs. Hatfield and a party of friends from Nova Scotia, there being in all seventeen people from the Maritime Provinces in the party.

A leading accountant is Professor Robert R. Thompson, of the school of commerce at McGill University. He is taking the opportunity of the tour to meet cost accountants at various points, and has delivered addresses to members of his profession at cities en route.

Dr. A. G. McAulay, a Montreal eye specialist, and Dr. A. G. McKechnie, are medical men touring with the party.

Mr. Frank Sprague, who is with his wife and family, from Belleville, Ontario, is a brother-in-law of Mr. James Richardson, the wealthy grain merchant of Winnipeg.

Education by travel in the manifold resources of the British Empire engages Mr. and Mrs. Frank Batho, of Suffolk, England, who went last year to South Africa, are devoting this Summer to a tour in Canada, and will visit Australia and New Zealand next Summer. They were visiting Mr. Batho's brother in Toronto when they joined Dean Laird's party.

Mrs. Johnson and daughter are from Scotland, where Miss Johnson is a student at Edinburgh University.

Mr. H. P. P. Trimingham, of Westmount, is an enthusiast in astronomy and brings introductions to Dr. J. S. Plaskett, to view the Saanich Astrophysical Observatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Young are in the party from Quebec City. The former is an enthusiastic Rotarian.

Miss Jane R. Patchell, of Saint John, has been traveling for thirty years constantly.

Two youths traveling together are David and Stephen Ambrose, both students at Trinity College, Port Hope.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Eccles are here from Halifax. Mr. Eccles is an official in the Court House there.

Americans in the party include Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sternberger, of Bloomfield, N.J., and Mrs. John Irwin, of Lockport, N.Y.

There are seven English girls in the party who crossed the ocean to join the transcanada tour. Mrs. Laird accompanies Dean Laird.

They will leave this evening, eastbound.

Tells England to Sink Vessels to Create Equality

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — Great Britain was called upon in a statement issued today by Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to sink some of her ships as a means of reaching a parity with the American Navy. Senator Borah said England has fifty-nine modern cruisers, while America has eighteen built or building.

Fair Buildings At Nelson Are Razed by Fire

NELSON, Aug. 1.—Nelson fair building is a mass of smoking ruins following one of the most spectacular fires ever witnessed in the city. Commencing at about 9 o'clock last night, the whole building was a mass of flames within ten minutes. The fire department confined the blaze to the fair buildings and saved the home of A. D. Emery, adjoining the Stirling Hotel on the other side. Two show buildings and a large grandstand were burned to the ground. The loss will amount to about $20,000, partly covered by insurance. John Burns & Sons, contractors, suffered a loss in piled lumber totaling about $2,000.

VICTORIA BOY IS EXAMPLE OF GRIT

Dr. Allan Hemingway, Instructor at University of Minnesota, Once Was Taxi Driver Here

From taxi driver to university lecturer has been the career for the last few years of Dr. Allan Hemingway, a Victoria boy, who has recently been invested with the degree of doctor of philosophy in physics by the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Hemingway is the son of the late Mr. Arthur Hemingway, a well-known auctioneer of this city. Upon the death of his father he was left an orphan with two sisters, and obtained employment as a taxi driver with Mr. F. W. Townsend. His employer soon noticed that the lad was spending his spare hours at evening classes, a fact which so impressed Mr. Townsend that he made the young man a substantial advance in order to enable him to study at the University of British Columbia.

Upon leaving the university, Dr. Hemingway enrolled at Minneapolis and attained his degree three years later. He was recently offered a remunerative position by the Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing Company upon its experimental staff in New York. This, however, he declined, preferring to accept the office of instructor in the medical school at the university. He will enter upon his new duties in October.

VICTORIA FAVORED AS AIRPLANE PORT

City to Be Regular Calling Place if Proper Provision Made for Landings

Subject to the provision of adequate landing facilities for seaplanes here, Victoria is to be made a regular port of call on the Seattle-Alaska service of the Washington-Alaska Airways Company, it was stated by Mr. A. E. Holden, an official of the company, who flew over from Seattle yesterday.

Mr. Holden, a former Victorian, has arrived here by air three times during the last week with passengers. On his visit yesterday he discussed the matter with Mr. R. W. Mayhew, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and stated that the matter of including Victoria as a regular port of call was being given favorable consideration by his company, but the need for proper docking facilities was an important consideration.

Both Mr. Holden and Major Don McLaren, of the Western Canada Airways, have promised co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee in gathering data for the proposed landing place. Both have had considerable experience with flying boats in British Columbia and Sound waters. The City Council is at the present time awaiting word from Ottawa upon its application of several months ago regarding a licence for the landing of seaplanes at the port.

STUDY AVIATION PLANS FOR CITY

Mr. J. H. Beatty and Mr. D. B. Hartie Begin Series of Trips to Gather Data Needed

Mr. J. H. Beatty, member of the Provincial Legislature, accompanied by Mr. D. B. Hartie, manager of G. A. Stimson & Company, Limited, flew to Port Angeles Wednesday evening with United States Pilot Alex Holden, returning yesterday morning on the Ss. Iroquois. Both Messrs. Beatty and Hartie are interested in aviation and took this occasion to visit a United States airport to observe their methods of clearing and dispatching. During their stay in Port Angeles they had occasion to criticize and suggest changes to facilitate the present situation there.

Mr. Fisher, vice-president of the First National Bank, Chief of Police Broun, and the chief customs officers arranged a meeting with the Victorians and the discussion has resulted in immediate action to improve the airport facilities at Port Angeles.

Mr. Hartie, upon being interviewed, reported that his firm was not interested in aviation but that Colonel F. G. Johnston, president of G. A. Stimson & Company, Limited, was personally enthusiastic in encouraging airline developments in British Columbia, feeling that an efficient service would go far in developing both industry and natural resources.

Numerous other trips will be taken by Messrs. Beatty and Hartie with a view to acquiring such statistics as are necessary in formulating more complete plans to bring Victoria to the fore in aviation.

SEVEN PRISONERS KILLED IN RIOT

Broke Out During Dinner, but Cause of Trouble Is Not Known as Yet

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Aug. 1.—Seven prisoners in the Federal prison here were reported killed this afternoon in a riot which was said to have broken out while the inmates were eating their noon meal. No information as to the extent of the violence or its cause had been obtained.

Extra forces of guards were called out to assist in quelling the disturbance, which was raging late today. While no persons were permitted to enter the wall of the prison, observers on the outside said they saw windows being broken in "A" and "B" cell houses.

Shouts and loud yelling was punctuated by shots from the guns of guards.

GENERAL FENG MAY COME TO CANADA

The possibility that General Feng of China may come to Canada in a private capacity is suggested in a letter from a missionary of the United Church in Honan, sent on June 24. In such case, Dr. and Mrs. Jonathan Goforth, who were in the same city at that date, would accompany him. "But should General Feng proceed to Germany in a semi-official capacity, as now seems probable," writes the correspondent, "they will not accompany him." The Chinese military leader is stated to be physically in a serious condition and requiring immediate medical treatment.

The office boy entered the sanctum of the small town newspaper and said: "Say, boss, there's a tramp outside who says he hasn't had anything to eat for six days."

"Bring him in," said the editor. "If we can find out how he does it we can run this paper for another week."—Columbia Record.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots —How to Remove Them

Here's a chance, Miss Frecklefaee, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes your freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles. (Advt.)

FEEBLE-MINDED NOT DEPRAVED

Prof. Straight, Addressing Summer School Class Here, Gives Aptitude Testing Demonstration

Feeble-minded people are not of necessity any more immorally inclined than other people. College graduates as well as sub-normals engage in crime, but generally of a different kind and at a later age, according to a statement made yesterday by Mr. Robert Straight, B.A., of the Bureau of Measurements, Vancouver, in the course of a lecture on "Aptitude Testing," which he gave for the Provincial Department of Education at the Victoria High School.

Mr. Straight had previously rehearsed the theory of educational measurements, test-making, and intelligence-testing, in lectures earlier in the week, and the course will conclude this afternoon with his address and demonstrations on "Vocational Guidance." The course has been wonderfully popular with his class of teachers, many of whom each day have volunteered to submit themselves to the tests which are in use at some of the universities, colleges, and high schools.

Yesterday he named some of the more approved tests used to discover the special aptitude of the individual boy or girl, man or woman. Among these were the sampling method, the empirical method, and the analytical, analogy, and association tests. He cited instances of counter methods employed by the subjects of tests, particularly when the object of the test was to discover the facts of crime, to evade self-betrayal. Some of these had been successful to the extent that the replies bore no relation whatever to the test questions, as in the case of the man who let his eye wander about the room and whose answers consisted of the names of the various objects betrayed, on occasion, such hesitation before answering that the reply had no value.

ANALYTICAL TESTS

The analytical test was valuable in some cases of aptitude testing. It was recommended, for instance, in testing the child's musical ability, its power to discriminate between different times, its sense of pitch, its possession of musical memory, consonance, etc. A test of the same kind, used, to discover aptitude for dressmaking, would arrive at the subject's ability to estimate length of line, to judge color harmony, space forms used in cutting, etc.

The analogy test, devised by Munsterberg, of Harvard University, was used in some cities by taxi companies in selecting their cab-drivers. An indication of the difference of results in the association test was given by the speaker when he rehearsed the significance of the word "box" when submitted to different subjects. To the fashionable woman, for instance, it implied box at the opera; to the boy, a box on the ear; to the postman, Boxing Day; to the mechanic, grease-box, etc., etc.

HANDWRITING

Tests to discover the honesty or dishonesty of the subject were also suggested. The speaker did not place much confidence in the claims of some people that they could judge aptitude by personal interview, particularly when this was taken with the object of seeing the person's face. Neither did he attach much importance to handwriting as an indication of ability. In the latter connection he recalled the popularity of a course offered in Seattle some time ago by a lady whose fees totaled in the neighborhood of $40,000 before she finally left that city. Judges and bank managers were among the many who took the course. One university professor, who had heard that his bank manager was taking the course, promptly transferred his account to a bank across the street, only to discover later than the manager of that bank, also, was a pupil.

The photographic test was just as unreliable. A test of the kind had been carried out with a class of university students, who had been faced with the pictures of twelve jailbirds and twelve respectable citizens. The results had merely proved the students' power to judge whether a person was well or badly dressed. The old theory that a shifty eye denoted a similar trait in the character was equally unreliable.

A brief reference to the Stenquist and McQuarrie tests, used to discover the subject's ability to learn quickly or otherwise, was followed by some actual class tests in musical ability. These were of a very interesting character, as class tests, having to do with ability to judge pitch, time, and other details.

A young artist of doubtful talent was visited by a wealthy merchant. After looking at a number of pictures, the business man said: "Young man, do you sell much of your work?"

"Of course I do," the artist replied, thinking that at last he was about to sell a picture.

"Well," said the merchant, "if you will come to my office tomorrow I will give you a good job. I have been looking for a salesman like you

A ONE-SIDED TREATY

A treaty between Canada and the United States for the preservation of the sockeye salmon industry on this coast must be fair to both countries; must have provisions which are not going to affect adversely the interests of industrial development on either side of the border. This is the attitude taken by Mr. R. B. Bennett and the Conservatives of the Dominion. National interests are involved and it is their duty to safeguard these; especially is it the duty of the Conservatives of this province, who have twelve representatives in the Federal Parliament, to see to it that no international pact is ratified which could in any of its implications place this province at a disadvantage where industrial development is concerned.

Mr. Bennett is wholly right in saying that the Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty, as drawn up, needs explanation. He might have gone further and said that no explanation can minimize possible effects of that treaty which could inure to the disadvantage of British Columbia. What the treaty needs is substantial revision and one amendment, absolutely necessary according to the viewpoint of this province and of the Conservatives throughout the Dominion, is the elimination of the proposal for joint international control of the Fraser River watershed. This watershed lies entirely within Canadian territory. Our fishery officials, if they will give their mind to the matter and visualize the conditions that exist, are perfectly competent of conserving this Canadian resource. For administration within their own territory they do not need any outside intervention. It is a most dangerous precedent to create to allow international control of national resources. It implies, and is, an interference with national and provincial rights; it is the giving away of a share in authority which we believe would constitute an act ultra vires of the Dominion.

There are some 100,000 square miles of territory comprised within the Fraser River watershed. It is proposed that for the purpose of sockeye salmon conservation an international commission, composed of Canadian and American representatives, should be appointed to decide on ways and means to promote propagation of the salmon that use the Fraser and its tributaries as spawning beds. The proposal is that the commission should have very wide powers of recommendation to the respective governments, powers which would not only stop hydro-electric development in connection with the Fraser River, its streams and lakes, but also could prevent the development of irrigation projects to foster the agricultural industry. In the drawing up of a treaty of this character no vision was displayed. The international control proposed to be exercised is wholly one-sided. It is to be exercised only on the Canadian side. There is no quid pro quo given Canada where American rights are concerned.

The treaty leaves the fishery administration on the American side with all the powers which it now exercises. The same number of traps now in use for catching sockeye salmon on their way to the Fraser River spawning beds can be used in the future; in fact, there is nothing in the treaty to prevent an increase in these. In other words, the American sockeye salmon fisheries are to continue to be self-administered, whereas the conservation of the supply on the Canadian side, and wholly within Canadian territory, is to be controlled by an international commission. An action of this character is simply courting complications. It amounts to a cession of national and provincial rights. It is giving to the Americans something which, under no circumstances, would they ever entertain the idea of giving to Canada. It is a surrender of responsibilities which belong exclusively to Canadians and which should be guarded jealously as a part of our national heritage. This is the crux of the treaty which is being opposed so vigorously by the Conservatives of the Dominion. A national issue is at stake and it is national representatives whose privilege it is to safeguard the interests of Canada.

Mr. Bennett can rest assured that he has with him in the stand he has taken an overwhelming balance of public opinion in this province. The people of British Columbia are not prepared to whittle away any portion of their birthright. The Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty has been loosely drawn; it is pro-American; it fails to take into consideration national rights that are prescriptive. Unquestionably something should be done, by international sanction, for the conservation of the sockeye salmon fishery resources, but that something, whatever it is ultimately, must leave this Dominion the self-governance of all its resources. That is the stand taken by the Federal Conservative Party. It is a part of the national doctrine of that party—of self-reliance and self-respect. Involved in that policy is opposition to the movement in national politics that truckles to American interests at the expense of Canadian well being. The Conservatives believe in autonomy where national resources are concerned, yet the Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty implies a negation of that principle.

Mr. Bennett could not have chosen a better place in which to raise anew this issue than in Victoria. This city is already fully apprised of what is intended in the proposed treaty, and, so far as the influence of Victoria can be exercised it will be concentrated on using every effort to insure that the treaty is amended in a radical way before it is ratified by the Parliament of the Dominion. On the Mainland the same opposition exists to any provision which would give the Fraser River watershed to international control. The fishermen of the Fraser River are opposed to the treaty as it stands and they are in a position to know that what is proposed is not in the best interests of their industry from the Canadian standpoint.

SIR ALEXANDER MACKENZIE

A tablet has been unveiled to the memory of Sir Alexander Mackenzie at Stornaway. He was among the greatest explorers in this country and insufficient has been done here to perpetuate his memory. It was in 1789 that he went from Fort Chippewyan to the Arctic Ocean, and four years later from Lake Athabasca via the Peace River to the Rockies, and thence across what is now British Columbia to the Pacific Coast. In other words, he enjoys the reputation of having been the first white man to see the Pacific Ocean from the landward side of Canada. In the task he opened up a route which is now a highway of transportation and which might be made a greater highway still, for engineering skill could make the Fraser navigable for commerce over scores of miles where no ships of any size now ply.

Sir Alexander opened up the conception of Canada as the landward bridge from the Occident to the Orient. It was men of his type who did more in the development of the country than all the legislators who have ever held office here. It is he and his compeers who deserve the highest places as the makers of Canada. His exploratory work was carried out when hazards and hardships were far greater than they are today. He was advancing through terra incognita, and he and his companions went unfalteringly into wildernesses of distances. The labors and privations of the greatest of our pioneers are the crowning romance of our beginnings as a country. They are worth perpetuating as in the case of Sir Alexander Mackenzie they have been perpetuated at Stornaway, where he is reputed to have been born.

The new locks at Amsterdam, begun in 1919, will be completed next October. They are 400 metres long, 50 metres broad and 14.5 metres high and able to accommodate a vessel of 100,000 tons. Thus they are the largest in the world and should be sufficient for requirements for many years to come as there is no present indication of 100,000-ton vessels being constructed.

There are some people who say that the extent to which the giving of the dole in Britain has gone and the premium which it has put on idleness is the price of free trade. If that is the case it is a heavy price to pay, for Britain now contributes ten millions in interest on unemployment insurance overdraft.

If the Dominion Government were to modify its policy in respect to granting liquor clearances to the United States it would be stultifying the attitude of the American Government which stands on record as being in favor of freedom of the seas. So far as Canada is concerned ships loaded with liquor bound from Canadian ports are pursuing their lawful occasions.

THE HAPPIER THING

For eight hot hours I face a grimy wall
And type "Dear Sirs, We cannot yet agree . . ."
For eight dull hours with rough discordant sound
I type "Dear Sirs, We are Yours faithfully,"
But when, long after noon,
The interfering sun
Pokes a thin finger through the windowpane
And runs it swiftly over the stiff keys,
Why then I see a narrow high-banked lane
That leads me to a cliff where I can lie
Between green springing corn and the grey sea,
Where I can hear the merry lisping waves
Teasing the lark in careless rivalry,
And there, pressed close to earth,
It seems more beautiful
To be a singing lark or blade of corn,
A happier thing it seems to be a tree
Than just a woman sitting by a wall
Typing all day "Dear Sirs, Yours faithfully."

—Florence Lacey in The London Observer.

LAUGHING EYES

If with one leap and clutch I could drag down
A spray of stars from Heaven's bright-blossomed tree,
I'd twist my glittering booty for a crown
To wreathe about your brows, dear heart of me.

But why should you such tawdry petals wear
And leave a scar of darkness on the skies—
Having the sunlit glory of your hair,
The starry splendor of your laughing eyes?

—Allan Bland in G.K.'s Weekly.

Note and Comment

By H. B. D.

Political parties, like poets and prophets, are born, not made. In the beginning there were but two political parties in Canada, and those two parties originated in a perfectly natural way. Before Confederation the political conditions in Canada were in a chaotic state. After the consummation of the union the political forces were reduced to order by the natural formation of the two historic parties which alternately have ruled the country ever since. John A. Macdonald became the leader of what may legitimately be called the major party. For a brief period the minor party was subjected to or handicapped by a dual leadership, one leader representing Ontario and the other Quebec.

* * *

Ontario and Quebec at that time dominated Canada politically, for there literally was no West, and the East was not deemed of much importance, although it had produced some eloquent speakers and astute politicians. The major party, following a British precedent, called itself the Conservative Party. The minor party, refusing for a time to follow any precedent, called itself the Reform Party. Hon. George Brown was the leader of the Ontario Reform Party and Hon. Robert Baldwin the leader of the Quebec Reform Party. In course of time the Reformers concluded that there might be something of political significance in precedents, and today they delight in calling themselves Liberals. Sometimes the Conservatives are called Tories and the Liberals Grits. The Conservatives are rather proud of being called Tories. The Liberals are never flattered when they are called Grits.

* * *

For many years after the consummation of confederation and the birth of the two Canadian political parties there was constant and bitter warfare for the honors and the emoluments of office. Almost everybody in the ancient days was deeply interested in the conflict between the two political parties. In those dear, delightful and simple times there were but two subjects of absorbing interest for discussion wherever two or three Tories or an equal number of Grits were gathered together, politics and religion. Most of the debaters appeared to regard politics of first importance. All meetings held were either political meetings or revival meetings. There were two chief organs giving expression to public opinion, The Toronto Globe and The Toronto Mail. The Globe was considered the greater light because "it was both political and religious" in its thunderings. The Mail was strictly political in its fulminations.

* * *

But Time is a great mellower as well as a great leveller. If we are to believe what we are told, the people of Ontario and Quebec are not nearly so deeply interested in religion as they were forty or fifty years ago. It is even said these people are beginning to lose interest in politics. The Conservatives have remained solid and loyal party men, but at intervals the Liberals sulk in their tents and denounce all politicians. This indifference has even affected the newspapers. Nearly all the once prominent and powerful Liberal newspapers proclaim their independence of all political influences and politicians.

* * *

Hence the birth of a conviction that political parties are not born, and that if they are born there comes a time when they ought to die and be buried. Hence attempts to form new political parties and the actual formation of new political parties, out of material cast out by the Liberal Party. Such a party actually was formed in the province of Ontario. That party was successful in one election, and the government formed out of it is known to this day as the worst government Ontario ever had. The most corrupt and most inept of all governments was known as a Farmers' Government. Governments of a similar kind have been formed in other provinces. As Farmers' Governments had been discredited by the record of the Farmers' Government, the other governments which were made and not born called themselves Progressive Governments.

* * *

The experience of the provinces that have enjoyed the blessings of governments which are made and not born has been neither profitable nor happy. As a consequence of the fiasco in Ontario, of certain revelations in the Prairie Provinces, and of the conditions at Ottawa, there has been created a conviction that what Canada needs is an old-time revival, something that will stimulate the interests of the people in matters of fundamental national importance. The politicians we have entrusted with the administration of our national affairs, like the Laodiceans, are neither hot nor cold. They are as tepid as dishwater and as capable of creating enthusiasm as a draft from a bog. A real old-time political revival would sweep over Canada like a conflagration.

Jots From the Arts

ANTON Lang, who impersonated Jesus of Nazareth in the Passion Play given at Oberammergau in 1910 and 1922, is a wood carver in the famed city of Upper Bavaria. He is perhaps the best-known depicter of the holy character in modern times. Since the fifteenth century, every ten years, with but few exceptions, the Passion Play has been performed during the months of May and October, about six times a month. Almost every person in the village is represented in the roles, but the greatest honor is given to him who plays the part of Christ. Before the play is given the people enter into a period of spiritual preparation for their parts.

HOMING PIGEON

Did you ever see a homing pigeon
Just released from darkness to the light?
Have you seen those wings, wide-spread and eager
For the swift rush of the homeward flight?
Have you seen the bird with rapture soaring
Up and up into the purer air,
Seeking for an answer to his longing,
Finding some strange whisper there?
Neither dark nor distance can deter him,
Through the storm he makes his dauntless way;
Cleaving upper heavens like an arrow,
Flying through the night and through the day.
Like a homing pigeon is each kindness
Other hearts send seeking out to yours;
Every wish that love has ever fashioned
For your house of life will find its doors.

"COLLINS' OVERLAND TELEGRAPH"

Sir,—Since my letter on "Collins' Overland Telegraph" appeared in your issue of July 26, I have been asked to give some more notes. As stated, all work ceased after the successful working of the Atlantic cable. During the Winter of 1866-67, a station was maintained at Fort Stagers on the Skeena River, where an operator named McCartney, and a companion, domiciled until the following Spring. And oftentimes during those—to him—dreary Winter months, Mr. McMicking held converse with him by wire from Yale office, where he had charge.

In addition to the construction party, the company owned, and had in service, a fleet of vessels, steam and sail, plying upon ocean and river—eight in all. The Onward made a trip to Siberia with material and supplies, was caught in the ice where she remained all Winter, and became a wreck when the ice moved in the Spring.

The Bering Strait cable was to start from Cape Prince of Wales on this side to Plover Bay, on the Siberian shore, from which latter point inland about 350 miles a line had been erected, while southward from Cape Prince of Wales, in Russia (Siberia), about 500 miles of land line had been constructed. The course of this contemplated line through British possessions and down the great waterways of Russian-America would have brought it into close proximity to the present Klondike goldfields and near Dawson, in which event it is not improbable that the hole-digging necessary would have developed the riches of that section at least thirty years earlier, and given to the former generation an additional important mining epoch.

The history of the building of this line and the causes which led to a work having for its object the encircling of the world by wire at so early a date, is likely always to be read with interest. The company, subsequently, merged into the Western Union Telegraph Company at New Westminster. They maintained the line northward as far as Quesnelle until puchased in 1870 by the British Columbia Government on British Columbia entering Federation in 1871. Later still, the Canadian Pacific Railway assumed control south of Ashcroft, while under Government control, and previous to the influx of population consequent upon the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the revenue fell short of the expenditure yearly. In 1887 Buie Brothers, merchants, (uncles of the writer), built at their own expense a branch line from Quesnelle to Barkerville, a distance of sixty miles. This branch, together with the main line between Quesnelle and Ashcroft, is still operated by the Federal Government. Mr. McMicking was superintendent of lines and cables from 1870 to 1880. Quitting the telegraph service, he busied himself with the formation of the Victoria and Esquimalt Telephone Company, of which he was manager for thirty-four years.

THE PRODIGAL'S RETURN

I've sweltered in the tropics,
I've shivered in the snows;
I'm up on all the topics
Wherever white man goes.

I've sampled all the beauties
In nearly every land,
Of Oriental wiles and styles
My knowledge is first hand

I've danced with girls in China
And Geisha in Japan,
Fair Cashmere girls, whose graceful whirls
Lure the unwary man.

On camel, mule and elephant,
Ricksha and Sedan chair,
On sampan, bunk and Chinese junk
I've traveled everywhere.

The Oriental glamour
You read about in books,
Seen from behind, you're apt to find
Is not quite all it looks.

And now I've ceased to wander,
No more I wish to roam;
I've gone the pace, found just the place
For an ideal home.

The Far East may be calling
And I may hear it—but,
In good old Vic, I'm going to stick
And build my stucco hut.

H. B. D.

Oh, yes, our friendship is sublime,
And nicely we agree;
I talk about her all the time
And so does she.

Lady Candidate (to heckler who had been pestering her for a plain "Yes" or "No" to his various questions)—If I ask you a question will you answer "Yes" or "No"?

Heckler—With pleasure.

Lady Candidate (employing well-known device)—Have you stopped beating your wife?

Heckler—No, I beat her this morning.

Lady Candidate—What?

Heckler—Yes, three up and two to go.

And the Others Don't Matter

One of our men declares that he could think up lots of good reasons why folks should buy printing from us.

"But our prices are right and our work guaranteed," he continues, "and as long as those two things are true the other reasons don't really matter."

We believe he's right. We operate economically. To our costs on any given job we add one overhead and one profit, and we have established the fact that the total is never more than it should be.

By "guaranteed printing" we mean satisfied customers. We don't want any customer to accept or pay for any job that doesn't please him in every particular.

We are printers to the largest and most particular business houses in town and we have no difficulty in meeting their requirements. We believe we could please you. What can we do for you?

MODERN OFFICE BLOCK ERECTED

Messrs. Branson, Brown & Co. Have Built Premises in West End of Vancouver Financial Area

TO BE OPENED ON AUGUST 17

An example of the case of a Victoria firm establishing branch offices in Vancouver, one of the first among financial houses, is given in the completion of the branch offices of Branson, Brown & Company, at 540 Howe Street, Vancouver.

Under Mr. Charles Brown, as resident partner, the company recently established a branch in Vancouver, and some months ago acquired a site for the building, which will be opened on August 17.

The building, which is modern in every detail, and specially finished within to give an attractive interior, has a twenty-five foot frontage on Howe Street, within the financial district, and within sight of some of the largest office buildings which have been erected in that part of Vancouver's financial district which has spread west of Granville towards Burrard, overlooking the harbor. Substantially built, of brick and stone, attention has been given to provide roomy offices, which are finished in oak, and tiling has also been a special feature.

The building will house the business of Branson, Brown & Company, and of Branson, Brown, Merrick, Limited. The latter company is the incorporation handling insurance, mortgages, real estate and similar activities for the proprietors.

The firm is a member of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, Grain Exchange, British Columbia Bond Dealers' Association, Seattle Stock Exchange, and Real Estate Board.

EQUAL RIGHTS IS KEYNOTE OF PLAN

Prof. R. B. Mobius Addresses Meeting Here on Subject of Single Tax Movement

Canada, said Professor R. M. Mobius, in addressing a meeting in the Campbell Building last night on the subject of the Single Tax, has had some experience with the partial application of the tax. It was well known that Victoria, Vancouver, Edmonton and a number of Western cities had made experiments in that direction. The speaker also maintained that the present Labor administration in Great Britain was heavily inoculated with the Henry George philosophy, and that definite, clear-cut steps would unquestionably be taken in due time to implement consideration of the Single Tax philosophy in legislation pertaining to taxation.

Professor Mobius emphasized that last night synchronized with the great international convention being held at Edinburgh, which was being attended by delegates from every part of the world to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the publication of Henry George's epoch-making book, "Progress and Poverty." The book, he said, had revolutionized economic thought and was now powerfully but silently changing the fiscal systems in every part of the world. The speaker referred to the pleasure he had had, some thirty-five years ago, in spending a few hours in the original printing plant where "Progress and Poverty" was produced, and meeting one of the co-workers with Henry George in setting the type. He also called the attention to his personal contact with Henry George and his almost equally famous son, Henry George, Jr.

MOVEMENT GIVEN SUPPORT

The keynote of the Single Tax movement was, he declared, its emphasis upon the equal rights of all men to the use of the earth, a statement which, he said, was in harmony with the teachings of the Scriptures and indorsed by some of the greatest legislators, philosophers and statesmen throughout the ages. The movement was particularly significant from the standpoint of the many illustrious men in modern times who had unqualifiedly indorsed it and had given the movement their loyal and enthusiastic support.

Professor John Dewey, the illustrious psychologist of Columbia University, had recently written in a preface his indorsement of the Single Tax policy and the importance of the teachings of Henry George to every cultured man. No man, said the speaker, could consider himself educated in social science who was ignorant of the teachings of Henry George.

TAKES FIRM HOLD

The movement had taken a firm hold in New Zealand and Australia, where, particularly in the city of Sydney, with more than a million inhabitants, the city had raised all its revenue from Single Tax methods, exempting all improvements from taxation and utilizing for its revenue the unearned increment created by the presence, industry and progressiveness of its citizens. The city's medical health officer, declared the speaker, claimed authoritatively that Sydney had the best health rate of any city in the world at the present time and had held it for eight consecutive years.

INTEREST REVIVES IN OIL INDICATION

Number of Prospecting Licences Are Sought in Lower Fraser, and Southeast Kootenay

A revival of interest in prospecting for petroleum and natural gas is shown in the number of official notices in the current issue of The British Columbia Gazette.

The Lower Fraser Valley, in the municipality of Delta, is the subject of a number of notices, including also coal as well as petroleum and natural gas.

Then there are a number of others in the oil section of Southeast Kootenay, and some in Yale District, a few standing in the name of a well known surveyor.

Saanich Gardeners To Hold Exhibition

Ward Two Saanich Cottage Gardeners' Society will hold its thirteenth annual exhibition in St. Mark's Hall, Cloverdale, on September 7. As the secretary, Mr. W. L. Llewellyn, is away on a holiday, prize lists may be obtained from the president, Councillor Paterson, 3720 Saanich Road. New entry forms are being printed and will soon be ready for distribution. As Ward Two is where the honorary president's (Dr. Tolmie) home is situate, and the Premier's interest in horticulture is well known, it is hoped a good showing will be made by all the gardeners in the district.

Landlords in France Have Enjoyable Time

PARIS, July 31.—The landlords of France are having a busy and happy time of it this Summer raising the rent. It is the first time they have been allowed to do so in several years. A new rent law became effective July 1, giving owners the right to ask more money from occupants of offices and apartments.

More than any other class in France, the landlords suffered from the slump of the franc to one-fifth of its pre-war value. Not only was the landlord not allowed to profiteer from the housing shortage after the war, but he wasn't even permitted to raise the rent enough to keep up with the fall of the currency.

Until the recent law was enacted—and put in effect in forty-eight hours—he was forbidden to ask more than double the 1914 rent for his property. That meant that, at best, he was getting a return of sixty per cent less on his holdings that he received before the war.

For instance, a flat renting for 5,000 francs a year in 1914 could not be leased for more than 10,000 francs. But 10,000 francs today are worth only $400 whereas 5,000 francs in 1914 were valued at $1,000.

Now under the old law the landlord can, and is, getting 150 per cent above the 1914 figure. He is still far from catching up with the fall of the franc, but he is going to be allowed to raise the rent fifteen per cent each year during the years from 1931 to 1938.

If the landlord can get rid of his tenant and sign a new one to a nine-year lease, then he can raise the rent immediately 250 per cent compared with its pre-war figure in francs.

Because of this legislation, many landlords are trying to eject their tenants, but, in the case of most French citizens, the occupant is well protected by the law and cannot be budged from his home. Foreigners who lease apartments, offices and shops do not enjoy such privileges, unless they are war veterans. There are hundreds of thousands of such unprivileged foreigners living in France. Recently many of them have talked things over privately with the landlord and made new agreements. Others dread eviction.

Two Irishmen were busily engaged in affixing slates to the roof of a newly-erected house when one of them slipped. In vain he sought for something at which to clutch in order to save himself. Patsy saw him fall, and, after what seemed to him hours of hideous suspense, heard his friend's body strike the ground. Fearfully, Patsy leaned over the edge of the roof. "Are yes dead, Dempsey?" he called. "Oh, Oi'm aloive all right!" gasped Dempsey, feebly. Patsy gazed at the prostrate body wonderingly. "Sure, I don't know whether to believe ye or not!" he said. "Yes always was a stranger to the trut'." Dempsey raised himself on one elbow. "Then Oi'm dead!" he wailed. "Ye'd niver dare call me a stranger to the trut' if Oi was aloive!"

When you are wrong admit it. The next time you are right more people will believe you.

BETTER ISLAND ROADS NEEDED

MR. ALF. CARMICHAEL URGES ELIMINATION OF DEAD-ENDS TO MAIN HIGHWAYS

Rotary President, on Return From Trip, Says Conditions in Province Are Most Hopeful

"Vancouver Island needs more roads and better roads. We should try and get the Government to eliminate the dead-ends to main highways, which would be of great benefit to the people of the Island by prolonging the stay of motor tourists," stated Mr. Alfred Carmichael, president of the Victoria Rotary Club, in speaking at the Rotarians' weekly meeting yesterday in the Empress Hotel ballroom.

President Carmichael, who recently returned from attending the conference of Rotary Clubs presidents and secretaries at Corvallis and the annual convention of the Pacific Northwest Real Estate Association at Salem, declared conditions in British Columbia were most hopeful and bore comparison with the opportunities of either Washington or Oregon.

"We in British Columbia have the natural resources and the natural advantages to make this Province the greatest country on the whole Pacific Coast. We should make the most of our scenery and opportunities. I might also state that we must have more of the spirit and optimism that is behind the thoughts and actions of our cousins to the south," Mr. Carmichael asserted.

The speaker reviewed the "highlights" of the gatherings at Corvallis and Salem, and said that the address given to the Rotary executives by Mr. James H. Beatty, M.P.P., past district Rotary governor, was one of the outstanding features of the Corvallis conclave.

"HOME TOWN" CONTEST

Mr. Carmichael was applauded when he stated he had won second place and a silver trophy with a five-minute "home town" talk on Victoria at the Real Estate Convention.

Dr. Varnon F. Smith, dentist, and Mr. Emile De Lorme, hotel manager, were elected members of the club. A letter of sympathy was ordered sent to Rotarian Allan Millhouse, who was bereaved recently in the passing of his mother.

Rotarian T. P. McConnell announced that the Rotary Club's softball team would practise this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Beacon Hill Park. Rotarian T. O. Mackay said the next interservice clubs' golf tourney would be played at 1:30 o'clock on Wednesday at Colwood.

Delightful vocal solos were rendered by Miss Doris Bagshawe, with Mrs. G. G. McAfee playing the piano accompaniments.

CHILDREN LEARN PIANO IN CLASS

Mrs. Peter Kennedy, Toronto Teacher, Will Give Public Demonstration This Afternoon

One of the most stimulating classes in connection with the Provincial Summer School for Teachers will come to an end this afternoon when Mrs. Peter Kennedy gives her closing public demonstration in teaching the piano by class method. This will be at 3 o'clock in the Victoria High School.

Vivacious, extremely attractive, and a born teacher, Mrs. Kennedy comes from Toronto, where the group method of giving piano instruction has been conducted in the city schools with great success for several years. Toronto, she says, has fifty or more teachers engaged in this work and all through Ontario, Quebec and some of the other provinces the system has been in practice for some time. She has already this Summer given similar courses in Moose Jaw, Regina and Vancouver, working under the auspices of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music.

The methods are extremely interesting. Whether they would be equally successful with other teachers is doubtful, for Mrs. Kennedy has a remarkable capacity for rousing any latent spark of interest even in the dullest pupil. Her eight little pupils are kept on such tiptoe of excitement throughout the lesson that they seem utterly unconscious of the battery of eyes trained on them from the back of the room where the teachers sit. It is amazing to see what she has accomplished in the mere four days she has been here, with material absolutely unschooled musically. Little boys and girls of eight and nine years are standing before the class beating, with a grace and rhythm which would shame some experienced conductors, time for march music and waltzes. At another time they are clamoring to tell the exact tonal relation of ra and la or me and sol; or listening tensely with closed eyes for the recurrence of a chord which the instructor has sounded the previous day on the piano and is now trying to hide in the complexities of a briskly-played march.

Each child has a cardboard model of the piano keyboard. This is constantly referred to. The blackboard is also used. In this particular class the teacher has employed a certain amount of impersonation in teaching the notes. Mrs. Kennedy's own method is to direct her questions at individual children more than to the class as a whole. This tends to keep each acutely alert. Her own keen sense of humor is reflected in the attitude of the children toward their work.

Attending each class is Mr. J. S. Atkinson, director of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, under whose auspices the courses are being conducted across Canada. Mr. Atkinson is an ardent advocate of the class method of piano teaching, as it represents one of the most efficient means of developing music and awakening the people as a whole to a fuller realization of the value of good music, both in the personal and domestic sense and from the national point of view.

Music, in its best sense, has a stimulating and cultural value, he maintains. One of the objects of the bureau which he represents is to restore to the people something which, he maintains, the motor car and the radio have threatened to rob thm of, viz., time and inclination to make their own music. Addressing a Rotary Club of an Eastern Canadian city some time ago, he said something to this effect. The same day the manager of a big motor company in the city called on him and presented him with a cheque for $100. This contribution had been an afterthought, the manager said. He had been present at the Rotary Club and his first inclination had been to resent the charges made against the motor car. On second consideration, however, he believed there was some truth in the statement the motor car probably was keeping popie from buying pianos and, consequently, from studying music. Mr. Atkinson thinks the tendency of the radio is to make people listeners rather than active students of music.

Teaching piano by the class method has been in vogue in England and Scotland for over thirty years. Scotland introduced it in 1892. It was introduced to the United States nine years ago and into Canada (at Kitchener, Ont.) five years ago, rapidly gaining way until it is almost generally found now in the bigger cities.

New York State Abandoned Farms Turned to Forest

ALBANY, N.Y., July 30.—New York State spent approximately a century and ahalf in removing its forests. It has spent the past quarter of a century in replacing them.

The early settlers looked out upon thousands of square miles of virgin forest, each acre of which had to be cleared before it could yield an agricultural crop.

Twenty-five years ago New York State awoke to the fact that it had been, to a large extent, denuded of its forests, and to an equal extent had become dependent on the hinterland of the continent for its supplies of lumber. The supply available within the borders of the Empire State was, relatively, nonexistent. Something had to be done. It was. To quote William G. Howard, state superintendent of lands and forests:

"New York was one of the first states to realize the need for the reforestation of idle lands. State nurseries, established over twenty-five years ago, produced young trees which were used for reforesting portions of the state forest reserve.

"The early success of these plantations on state land resulted in a public demand that the state supply trees for planting on private lands and this policy has been followed since 1908, with the result that about 160,000 acres have been reforested from trees furnished by the state nurseries."

A start had been made, but meanwhile farm land was being abandoned in this state at the rate of approximately 250,000 acres a year until, at the beginning of this year, it was estimated that there were about 3,000,000 acres of abandoned land suitable for reforestation.

To offset this situation the reforestation programme had reached a point where more than 22,000,000 trees were being planted each year, enough to reforest approximately 20,000 acres. Of that area, only about 5,000 or 6,000 acres were being reforested by the state, the remainder being included in private or municipal projects.

"Three years are required to produce from seed, trees suitable for use in reforestation. Moreover, these trees cannot be left in the nursery more than four years or they become too large for forest planting. There must, therefore, be a close coordination between the production of trees and the actual planting of idle lands," Mr. Howard says.

"The only way to assure this coordination of activities would seem to be a policy which should enable the State to acquire idle lands in large blocks and reforest these areas."

In one of the Lancashire towns the candidate was addressing a rather large meeting. An unruly member of the audience, after asking a number of ridiculous questions and causing considerable annoyance, asked, "Do you really think all women should have a vote?" "Certainly," replied the candidate. "You think idiots are able to vote, then?" "Don't answer him," roared the crowd. "Yes," replied the candidate. "I think I will answer him, because he appears to be personally interested."

"Why did the moon beam?" the young man asked his aunt.

She said she did not know.

"Because," he said, "the cloud broke."

The old lady declared emphatically that she could not see the joke.

"You can't see it!" he cried. "Why, it's so plain I should have thought you couldn't help but see it.

"I'm sorry, my dear, but I can't," the old lady assured him. "Unfortunately, I've come out without my spectacles."

There was another tug standing by waiting to help the vessels off the rocks at high tide, and watching the large boom of logs which the two tugs had been towing.

Pitman Tourists Here—A party of thirty-one tourists from Eastern Canada, the majority of whom have their homes in Montreal, spent a most enjoyable day here yesterday, having reached the turning point of the first annual all-Canadian tour of Pitman's Tours, Limited. The party, which was in charge of Mr. S. M. Greene, left by the afternoon boat on the return trip East. The visitors were much impressed by the lovely homes and gardens of Victoria, and were particularly attracted by "Benvenuto," the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart.

Presumes Death—Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, in Supreme Court Chambers here yesterday, granted a preliminary order for leave to presume the death of Elizabeth J. Beck, formerly Elizabeth J. Redpath. Mr. Robert A. Wootton, on behalf of the widower, who made the application, informed the court that Mrs. Beck had last been seen at the northern settlement of Hecate in 1918, when she told friends she would take the southbound boat for Vancouver. A police search at Vancouver had failed to produce any trace of the missing woman.

Continues His Interest—Mr. Wallace Havelock Robb, of Abbey Dawn, Kingston, acknowledges with appreciation the ornithological news item listing the birds of Victoria, cut from The Colonist of June 5. Mr. Robb appreciates, he writes, this little contact or spiritual touch with Victoria. He recalls, with not a little yearning to be back again, the inspiring beauty of Vancouver Island and especially the friendly intercourse with authors and naturalists in August, 1927, when he was present in Victoria during the visit of the Prince of Wales, patron of Abbey Dawn.

Garage Burns—His curiosity aroused by a bright glow at the corner of Fernwood Road and Fort Street, a passing motorist at 2:35 o'clock yesterday morning was the means of preventing what would have been a dangerous fire, in the opinion of firemen. A truck in the garage caught fire, spreading to the garage roof and sending tongues of flame seventy-five feet into the air, illuminating the whole side of the Girls' Central School, but failing to disturb the sleep of residents of the neighborhood. The motorist immediately turned in an alarm to the Yates Street fire hall and within a few minutes four fire engines arrived. Not until the blaze was nearly quelled did residents of the house come out to see what was the trouble. The garage was completely demolished, as was the body of the truck.

My clothing aggravated the breaking out on my chest, and the irritation prevented me from sleeping. The trouble lasted about three weeks.

"I tried several remedies without helping me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after applying them once I felt greatly relieved, and in about two weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Harry McCormack, New Edinburgh, N. S., June 22, 1928.

LAWN BOWLING

The ladies' rink turned the trick yesterday afternoon, and sent Paterson's rink down to defeat. Mrs. Owens, who will skip a rink in the Capital City tournament, desired a practice game with the men, but owing to illness could not be present, and Mrs. McKeachie very ably took her place. It was a close, hard-fought game from start to finish, the men having no alibi. The ladies simply outbowled them in each and every position and won on their merits. Score by ends:

Men: 0 1 0 0 2 0 2 3 0 1 1 0 2 0 0 0 0 2 1 0 0—15.

An unknown writer sent a play to Dumas, asking the dramatist to collaborate with him. Dumas wrote back in a rage, "How dare you propose to yoke together a horse and an ass?" By return post came the author's reply, "How dare you call me a horse?"

Dumas was so much impressed by this ready wit that he asked for the play again.

Nancy, who was only five, was much impressed when a large bunch of roses arrived for her mother.

"Why did you get them, mother?" she asked.

"You see, Nancy, seven years ago today daddy and mother were married," explained the mother.

"Goodness! He was a long time sending them, wasn't he? You'd think he'd have sent them seven years ago."

An enterprising young college graduate opened an office in the vicinity of Wall Street. He engaged a painter to letter the entrance door to his office.

"What do you want on the door?" asked the painter.

Just 'John Smith, Broker'," replied the student.

"Why don't you make it 'Banker and Broker'?" suggested the painter.

"How much more will it cost?" queried the student.

"About $4," answered the painter.

"Go ahead," said the student. "Who wouldnt give $4 to be a banker?"

Never before has any one musical instrument offered such startling clarity of tone, such warmth, richness, color. Never before has a radio been so simple to operate, so amazingly easy to tune. Never before has music from a radio matched so perfectly the marvelous reproduction of the new V.E. Orthophonic records.

But the greatest news of all is the price. Think of it—only $375 for the Victor Radio and Electrola combination. The Victor Radio can of course be had separately in its own beautiful cabinet—only $255.

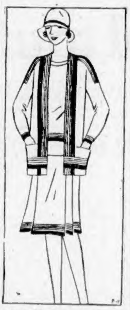
Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont



Bordered linen crashes through to first place in the sport frock tournament. Many linen contestants have been running it a close second. Handkerchief linen blouses, dark tailored suits, pastel shaded models have all been cited as worthy opponents. But the honors of the day go to this winning suit of natural crash linen sketched above.

It puts on a bold front with bands of red, yellow and brown which border the material and are adroitly used to put over a striking idea of trimming. The stripes run brazenly up and down the front of the jacket, down the shoulders and around the cuffs. They come in for a gala finish at the hem of the jacket and the one-piece tennis dress.

PERFECT SIGHT
Without Glasses
Throw Away Your Glasses and See Better

Practically every known eye trouble—even partial blindness—has been benefited and entirely cured by this new scientific method of treatment through the Great Sympathetic Nervous System.
Far sight, near sight, astigmatism, cross eyes, squint, cataract—all have been successfully treated without medicine, operation, or optical aids of any kind.
Even though you have been told that you will never again be able to see satisfactorily without glasses, owing to permanent changes in the form of the eyeball, it is still possible for you to be cured—and see better without your glasses than you now do with them.
If you suffer from any form of eye trouble, call at once and learn how you can have comfortable, effortless vision—unhampered by glasses. It may mean so much to you.

A well-known county court judge once rebuked a man in court for endeavoring to confirm an absurd story told by his wife.

"You should be more careful," the judge said. "I tell you candidly I don't believe a word of your wife's story!"

"That's all very well! You may do as you like," answered the man in a mournful tone, "but I've got to!"

Owen Wister, the Philadelphia novelist, was talking at a luncheon about the wild regions where his vivid stories are placed.

"A tenderfoot from the East," said Mr. Wister, "once visited Tin Can, for it was rumored that oil had been struck in the neighborhood. The tenderfoot put up at the Tin Can Palace Hotel, a structure partly of wood and partly of canvas, and as the landlord was making his bed he said nervously:

"'I trust this is a law-abiding community, friend?'

"The landlord straightened up from his bed-making and picked his teeth with his bowie knife thoughtfully. Then he said:

"'Wall, stranger, it's a lynch-law-abidin' community.'"

A contemporary wants to know how to tell a woman's age. No nice man ever does.

At the Playhouses

AMUSEMENTS

Capitol—"Black Waters," starring James Kirkwood.

Coliseum—Blanche Sweet in "The Woman in White."

Columbia—"The Million Dollar Collar" with Rin-Tin-Tin.

Dominion—"Show Boat," with Laura La Plante.

Playhouse—Rod La Rocque, in "The One Woman Idea."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE One would naturally assume that a motion picture star would become so tired of cameras he would not care to play with one when he had time off. Yet Rod La Rocque, widely known leading man, describes amateur photography as his hobby. La Rocque portrays the leading male role in "The One Woman Idea," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Clothes may "make the man," but at the same time they may cause him to be entangled in a labyrinth of thrilling adventures, as revealed in "The Million Dollar Collar," the thrilling Warner Bros. production starring Rin-Tin-Tin, now showing at the Columbia Theatre. Rin-Tin-Tin's support includes Evelyn Pierce, Philo McCullough, Tommy Dugan, Grover Liggon and Allan Cavin.

COLISEUM THEATRE Making motion pictures is not without its dangers even in the best of dramas. Cecil Humphries, who appears in "The Woman in White," starring Blanche Sweet at the Coliseum Theatre, has a scene in which a lamp explodes and fires a house. The explosion occurred prematurely with the result that Mr. Humphrey was thrown across the room and severely burned.

CAPITOL THEATRE Persons attending the opening performance of "Black Waters" yesterday at the Capitol Theatre were treated to several delightful surprises; they saw the first "British" all-dialogue picture ever screened; they witnessed a personal triumph for several well-known actors who have heretofore appeared only in silent photoplays, and they enjoyed one of the best talking pictures that has been presented in this city. Adapted from the well-known stage mystery play, "The Fog," written by John Williard, author of "The Cat and the Canary," "Black Waters" is well acted.

COLISEUM WILL 'TALK' MONDAY

Splendid Acoustics Augur Well for Results—Popular Stock Company Will Open on August 26

APPARATUS IS 100% PRODUCT OF CANADA

On Monday next Mr. G. F. McEwan, manager of the Coliseum Theatre, will produce his first talking picture with the 100 per cent Canadian Kinephone Talkietone apparatus which has been installed.

The acoustics of the Coliseum, which was originally designed and built for vaudeville, are admirably suited to the sound picture, and the all-Canadian machinery is working splendidly. The picture presented on Monday will be "The Younger Generation," a screen adaptation of Fany Hurst's stage play, "It Is to Laugh." The picture, as its name implies, is a satire on modern youth, and has created a great deal of interest in England and America.

With the "talkies," Mr. McEwan will also run stock. On August 26, Mildred Page, an old favorite in Victoria, will open with her company of nine performers. The Coliseum has done wonderful business ever since Mr. McEwan took over the management thirteen months ago, and the success of the Toby Leitch Stock Company is likely to be repeated next month.

CLANS GATHER AT BANFF THIS MONTH

Story of Flora Macdonald and Prince Charlie Being Sung at Highland Gathering

A special feature of this year's Highland gathering at Banff, to be held August 30 to September 2, will be the presentation of Dr. Healey Willan's ballad-opera which gives the story of Flora Macdonald's escape with Prince Charlie from the pursuing redcoats at Rossinish in the Hebrides. In this opera are incorporated many of the Higland airs and Jacobite songs of the period. The composer, a Canadian, has taken great pains to maintain historical accuracy in this reconstruction of one of the most romantic incidents in Scottish history.

This year's Highland gathering is being given under the patronage of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and Hon. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, who has offered a handsome silver trophy for the best all-round Highland athlete, has intimated his intention of being present. The Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta also will attend. Lieutenant-Governor Bruce's trophy will remain the property of the winner after it has been won by the same man for two successive years.

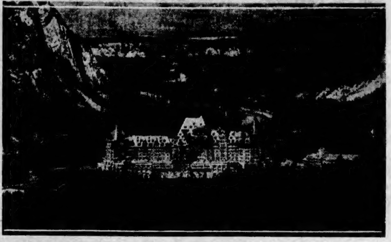
Another new trophy is the Ardchoille Challenge Cup, a solid silver copy of the famous Ardagh Chalice, offered to the piper winning the highest number of points over all in the open piping events. This is presented by Paul Huston Gregory, an ardent Scot of New York. Delegate pipers from the Highland regiments in Canada will compete for the E. W. Beatty trophy, and a new set of contestants will compete for the piping championships of the Canadian Militia, with Neil Sutherland, of Regina, acting this year as judge instead of winner.

This annual Banff gathering was inaugurated just three years ago, through the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Last year approximately 10,000 Scots participated in the event.

Much the same programme, with three days of frolicking and feasting, entertaining and being entertained by well-known pipers, Highland dancers and singers will take place this year.

Among the notable musicians who will be present will be Mrs. Margaret Kennedy Fraser, whose anthology of Hebridean music is now known to folk song singers and collectors the world over. Others who will be present in the role of performers are Finlay Campbell, baritone; Stanley Maxted, tenor; Herbert Hewetson, tenor; Marjory Kennedy Fraser, Scottish composer and singer; Catherine Wright, contralto; Brownie Peebles, mezzo-soprano of the American Opera Company, and Mary Frances James, soprano. Most of these artists have been heard in practically every Canadian city and are well known at Pacific Coast resorts and to radio listeners.

Headquarters of Highland Gathering



The Banff Springs Hotel, where Scots will gather ten thousand strong, August 30-September 2. Special set-off areas situated in the hotel grounds will provide the setting for the dancing, piping and athletic events.

The lesson was on natural history, and the new teacher had chosen the interesting subject of the cat.

'Now, children," she said, "tell me what sort of clothes pussy wears."

No reply.

"Come, come!" said she, determined to extract the right answer. "Does she wear feathers?"

A pained expression crossed the face of a little boy in the front row.

"Please, ma'am," he asked pityingly. "Ain't you never seen a cat?"

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

RARIN' TO GO!

It is natural for us to be joyous and cheerful. It is not natural to wake up feeling tired and grouchy. A good disposition is an indication of a good digestion; a sour disposition, a sour stomach.

Instead of anticipating the day's possibilities of activity and accomplishment as a well person would, the sick person arises tired, cross and irritable. He dreads the day's problems rather than welcomes its possibilities. Yet, that tired feeling may be changed to that grand and glorious feeling if one will but take the trouble to cultivate health and the right mental attitude.

One who tires easily or becomes trembly and winded after a short walk should have a careful physical examination to discover what needs to be done to avert the impending disease, because listlessness and tiredness are two of nature's warning signals. The increasing enervation is the forerunner of disease, as it indicates that the patient's energy is gradually stealing away or being dissipated, which leaves him weaker and weaker.

A pronounced tired feeling is one of the first indications of tuberculosis, diabetes, annemia and other serious diseases, yet many times people will feel tired because of autointoxication, without any serious disease having yet developed.

Often, people who are cheerless and weighted with care will find that they quickly enjoy the beauty of the sky and the song of the bird after they have used a short cleansing fast and cleansing enemas which remove the poisonous toxins which are sending fatigue and irritation to the brain.

One who wishes to look at the world through rose-colored glasses must first cleanse his system of the blues of billiousness. A pure blood stream means a brain that can function naturally and given a healthy frame of mind makes life worth living and attracts success to us.

Endeavor to so build your health that you will wake up in the morning ready to race over the hurdles in your path, and you will find that the road to success is not difficult but easy. Success often depends upon just such a simple measure as changing that tired feeling—those worrisome blues into a feeling of pep—of being ready and rarin' to go!

LEGION BRANCH IS DANCE HOST

P.O.'s and Men of H.M.S. Colombo Are Guests at Enjoyable Function at Amphion Hall

Petty officers and men of H.M.S. Colombo were the guests of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., at a dance held at the Amphion Hall, Yates Street, last night. The ballroom was specially decorated for the occasion. Situated on the platform at the north end of the ballroom was a replica of a battleship with its guns pointing southward, while at the background hung two Union Jacks. The walls were decorated with red, white and blue panels which added greatly to the decorating scheme, which was carried out by E. Chappell, president of the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

Refreshments were served during the evening by the ladies' auxiliary, of which Mrs. D. Sheret is president.

The function was arranged by the entertainment committee under the direction of T. B. Dempster, chairman.

Dancing started at 8:30 o'clock and continued until midnight, with Mr. D. Sheret as master of ceremonies. About three hundred attended the event.

There is a certain curate who is of a painfully nervous temperament, and in consequence, is constantly making awkward remarks—intended as compliments—to the bishop and others. Upon one occasion, having distinguished himself in an unusual degree during a gathering of clergy at the bishop's palace, he was taken to task for his failings by a senior curate, who was one of his companions on the way home. "Look here," said the senior, decidedly, "you are an ass! Why cannot you keep quiet, instead of making your asinine remarks? I am speaking to you as a brother—" Loud laughter interrupted him at this point, and for a moment he wondered why.

Peter Looks for the Strange Drummer

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

How very dull this world would be
With nobody new to hear or see.
—Peter Rabbit

Peter Rabbit was just starting for home at daybreak. He knew he ought to be in the dear Old Briar-patch. He knew that if he didn't get home soon, little Mrs. Peter would begin to worry. He reached the edge of the Green Forest where it joins the Green Meadows and sat up to look this way and that way to make sure that the way was clear to the dear Old Briar-patch. Then, just as he was going to take the first hop in that direction, there sounded far back of him a sharp rat-a-tat-tat. Peter didn't take that first hop toward home. Instead, he abruptly sat up and listened.

"I should like to know who that strange drummer is," muttered Peter. "I certainly should like to know who it is that can drum like that. I wonder if I could find him if I went back to look for him."

Just then Sammy Jay spied Peter and stopped in a tree over Peter's head. "Isn't it time you were home, Peter?" inquired Sammy.

"I suppose it is," replied Peter. "I was just getting ready to start."

"Well, why didn't you start?" demanded Sammy.

"Do you hear that drumming, Sammy Jay?" demanded Peter.

"Do you think there is anything wrong with my ears?" asked Sammy. "There would have to be something very wrong with them if I didn't hear that drumming."

"Who is doing it?" Peter asked.

"A first-class drummer, I should say," replied Sammy, who dearly loves to tease.

"He is a first-class drummer all right," replied Peter, "but who is he?"

"How should I know?" asked Sammy.

"I believe you do know," replied Peter. "I believe you do know, Sammy Jay, and you're just trying to tease me."

"Isn't it time you were home, Peter?" inquired Sammy.

"Do you know what I would do if I were in your place?" asked Sammy.

"What?" demanded Peter.

"I would go and find out for myself who that drummer is," replied Sammy. "So long, Peter! I have an engagement over in the Old Orchard."

Sammy took to his wings and soon Peter heard him crying: "Thief, thief, thief!" over in the Old Orchard.

Peter sat a while where Sammy had left him. He looked over toward the Old Briar-patch. He listened to that drumming. "I believe Sammy is right," said Peter to himself at last. "There is nothing like getting things at first hand. I believe I will go look for that drummer. It ought not to be difficult to find him. All that I need is to follow the sound of that drumming."

So Peter turned around and started off, lipperty-lipperty-lip. Every few minutes he stopped to listen. Each time he listened he heard that sharp rat-a-tat. Of course, each time it sounded louder. The farther Peter went the louder the drumming sounded. Never in his life before had he heard such drumming!

"My goodness!" thought Peter. "I thought Goldenwing the Flicker was a real drummer, but his drumming is nothing compared to this. I wonder who under the sun this drummer can be! Hello, there's Cousin Jumper over there. Probably he'll know."

So Peter turned aside to pay his respects to his big cousin, Jumper the Hare. And just then the drumming ceased. Yes, sir, it ceased altogether.

CHAPTER XVII

The human mind revolts from concentration. It takes its pleasure in flitting in kaleidoscopic motion from place to place, from thing to thing, from idea to idea. Concentration is a matter of the will, and Martha's will was not engaged . . . Her mind did not seek to escape from the subject, but, perhaps operating that defence mechanism of which psychologists tell us, endeavored to find some part upon which it could fasten with less rack and wrench to the soul. And so she found herself thinking of Richard Lame's unexplainable appearance in the affair.

He had spoken to her briefly, shortly—directions that were orders—and she obeyed.

At her hotel he handed her out of the taxicab and escorted her to the elevator. "Go to bed," he said shortly. "Talk about the weather or Greek art or the decadence of football—if you must talk to anyone. But steer clear of facts."

She turned to him a distraught, puzzled face.

"I mean," he said abruptly, "exactly what I say. Give facts a clear berth. If anybody asks you if it was a warm evening, tell him the phenomena of the weather are matters on which there may be a difference of opinion."

"Are you making fun of me?" she asked almost wistfully.

He frowned. "Do I look humorous? I am giving you the best advice I have to give."

She wanted to ask him what he knew, what he suspected, what he was thinking of her, but she dared not.

"Good night," she said, "and thank you."

He had nodded and turned away as the door clanged shut.

Martha found herself thinking about Lame—apart from his participation in this disaster—thinking of his appearance, of his voice, of the words he had spoken to her only that noon in the park. Though, in her anxiety and mental anguish, she did not perceive it, reflecting upon him was a relief, a sort of balm for her suffering. Instinct told her that in Lame she possessed a sure friend, dependable, upon which she might call, and who would not give half-heartedly. She recognized in him something sturdy, something strong and efficient . . . She believed that because he had told her so. Upon her own feelings toward him she did not dwell, but his love for her had become a welcome thing.

Then Jerry Breen came in, stood just within the door for an instant before she hurled her hat and wrap toward a chair, and then advanced to Martha's side with quick, positive little steps.

"My dear," she exclaimed, "what is it? You're in a jam."

"Yes," said Martha.

"Tell Mamma," said Jerry.

"Where," Martha countered with a question, "is Father?"

"The old peach!" exclaimed Jerry. "I guess he's gone home."

"What did he want?"

Jerry frowned. "Don't dodge," she said. "You'd better get it off your chest. Come clean."

Martha was stubborn. "What did he want?" she repeated.

"I don't know what he wanted or wheather he got it. But he didn't mention you. Not once . . . I've often wondered just what a gentleman was. Well, I found out today, and he's it."

"He was snooping," said Martha.

"Sometimes," said Jerry, "I incline to believe you're a darn fool. He's as wise as a hatful of owls . . . And I'll say he thinks quick! He covered up that gun when you dropped it better than Otis Skinner could have done it in a play. And that was the end of it too. I don't know how he did it, but he made everybody forget there was a gun . . . Why was there one, Marty?"

"Oh, don't—don't talk about it."

"And where did Blade go to and Lame come from?" she paused and frowned. "By the way, why does Jimmy hate Mortimer Blade so? Ever notice the kid?"

"I don't know."

"I have a hunch that kids and dogs have an instinct . . . Did Blade get you in a mess?"

"No."

"Because," said Jerry, "he's the sort to get you in and then leave you flat. I'm not so strong for that young man . . . Look here, you've a lot of confidence in yourself, but you're not so darn wise. You've been brought up wrong for it. Knocking around the edges the way you have for a few months hasn't turned you into any eight-minute egg. After all, you're one of the Long Island set just playing around."

"I'm not," said Martha.

"And you'll never be anything else. Slumming! You don't belong, and you never will belong. . . . Now cast your eye on Jerry! I've no country house background, and any conversation of mine about boarding-schools is lipstick. I'm in it because I have to be, and I guess I know every rope from fly-floor to stage. I can look after myself because I have to look after myself—and even then my foot might slip. I've got a family too. But not your kind. Kid brother that's too hot to handle, and my mother. Not in this town—and what's the matter with me when I'm low in my mind is that I can't do much for them. But that's not the point. I know my way around better than you, so you just come clean and we'll see what we can do."

"I daren't," said Martha in a whisper. "He told me not to talk."

"Who? Mortimer Blade?" she sniffed. "He would."

"No—Richard Lame."

"Oh! Is he in it?"

"I don't know how," said Martha. "He appeared there at Miss Patty's and brought me home."

"When Mortimer Blade ditched you?"

Martha looked up. "I don't know. I don't know what happened."

Jerry considered and then nodded her head. "It was Lame who called him out. Warned him off, gave him the gate, or something. And then you dropped the artillery. Where does that fit into the picture? What were you doing with a gun that didn't belong to your father?"

"It wasn't mine," said Martha. "Oh, don't cross-examine me. I can't stand it. Can't you see I'm almost frantic!"

The telephone rang suddenly; Martha all but cried out in fright. Jerry glanced at her cornerwise and stepped to the instrument.

"Hello," she said.

Instantly Mortimer Blade's voice replied, incautiously, not awaiting the identification of the voice which spoke to him.

"The papers are out," he said, "and it looks all right. They haven't dug up anything. Sit tight and keep your mouth shut."

"The same to you," said Jerry, "and many of them."

Then she heard a crash as if the receiver had fallen, and faintly the sound of angry voices. Then the connection was broken.

"It was Mortimer," she said to Martha. "He says sit tight and keep your mouth shut . . . So sit tight a minute till I get back."

"Where are you going?"

"Down to the office a second."

Jerry pushed an impatient thumb against the button of the elevator bell and presently had descended to the desk where she bought copies of the morning papers, with which she re-entered the room.

"Now we'll see what's broken," she said.

The story was there upon the front page: Colburn found dead—murdered. Table set for four. No clues. Japanese servant. No clues . . . Jerry compressed her lips. "I'll say you are in a jam!" she said. "How long have you been playing around with Colburn?"

"I—I never saw him until tonight."

"Table set for four," said Jerry thoughtfully. "Colburn, you, and Mortimer Blade—and who?"

"I don't know," said Martha stubbornly.

"Girl of course . . . And she got Colburn or Blade did. If you're telling the truth. Are you?"

"I never saw him until I stepped into that room."

"Who knows you went there?"

"I don't think anybody does."

Jerry was piecing things together. "Since when," she asked, "has Blade been supplying Colburn's harem? And Colburn had this other girl there. Um . . . and she saw what was coming off—and got him—Well, I hope she makes her getaway. Where does the revolver come in? Why did you have that?"

"She—she dropped it and her bag on the floor. After she went out I—I picked them up and brought them away. I don't know why. I just did it."

"Lucky for that girl, whoever she is," said Jerry succinctly. "And where's the bag?"

Martha pointed.

"That," said Jerry, "is as safe to keep in a bedroom as a dog with the rabies. Give me those scissors."

Systematically Jerry set to work snipping the bag into shreds until nothing was left but a heap of minute fragments. Then she spent twenty minutes dropping them from the window, one by one, so that the early morning wind carried them away never to be found or identified again. As for the compact and the lipstick and the handkerchief and the tiny purse—she placed those in her own bag for subsequent disposal.

"Now," she said, "a little sleep won't do any harm."

"I can't sleep," said Martha.

"Don't be an idiot. You haven't done anything, have you?" she paused. "I never did fall very hard for Mortimer Blade, but I didn't figure he would run that sort of errand for Colburn." She shook her head and opened wide her big, appealing eyes. "There's something back of it. Why should he try to hand you to Colburn on a silver tray?"

Martha shook her head, hardly comprehending.

"Why did your brothers beat him up? It's all tied together somehow." She walked across and stood before Martha. "My dear," she said, "if I were you I'd hit for home on the earliest morning train, and I'd hide in the potato cellar or what have you until this blows over."

"No," Martha cried. "I shan't go home. Whatever happens, I shan't go back there."

TWO WOMEN WANT TO MAKE RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—Entering the field which man alone has dared to venture, two women flyers will attempt to wrest from the air the refueling endurance laurels now in the possession of the St. Louis pilots, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine.

Announcement that Miss Bobbie Trout and Mrs. Louise Thaden, aviatrices, who pioneered in women's endurance and altitude flights, would set out at the Metropolitan airport some time in September to eclipse the record of 420 hours, 21 minutes, 30 seconds, was made here yesterday.

Mrs. Smith—Mrs. Brown, lend me a drop of vinegar?

Mrs. Brown—I'm sorry, but I haven't any in the house.

Mrs. Smith—What a bad housekeeper you must be. Whenever I come to borrow a bit of anything, you haven't any.

"Smith is unlucky—he put his whole fortune into his wife's name so that his creditors could not get it."

"He did right."

"But his wife has eloped with his chief creditor."

LOCAL DOUBLES TEAM ADVANCES IN WESTERN MEET

Powerful Field Will Seek B.C. Tennis Championships Here Next Week

Record Entry Will Take Part in Title Tourney at Willows

Leading Californians and Mainlanders Coming for Championship Meet—Many Local Stars Will Compete

One of the most colorful fields in the history of the British Columbia Lawn Tennis Association's meets will be on hand next Monday at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, when the provincial championship tournament gets under way. Stars from the South, Pacific Northwest, Mainland and Up-Island, in addition to a heavy local contingent, will compete, and tennis at its best is expected.

The California contingent will be one of the main threats. Consisting of about a dozen, the Southerners have been collecting silverware in a tour which has carried them through Oregon and Washington, and which will conclude with the meet at the Willows courts next week.

This year's field will be far stronger than those of previous ones. Included in the southern brigade who have signified their intention of taking part will be: Levy, Berndt, Gove, Ray Casey, Melvin Griffin and George Green. In the women's division Dot Weisel will compete along with Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross.

The appearance of these stars is enough to insure a high-class brand of tennis and competition. The American competitors will add an international flavor, and the experience gained from these crack outsiders will, no doubt, prove an added incentive to local players.

TURENNE NOT COMING

One great attraction will be missing this year in Leon de Turenne, of Seattle, who last week won the Washington States singles championship. Turenne has been a frequent competitor in the tournament and had made his plans to enter this year's event, but business reasons have forced him to withdraw his entry.

The Mainland will also send a strong delegation, but the number so far is uncertain. Marie McNab, who made a great showing in the Washington and Oregon States championships, will be a sure starter, in addition to several other of the leading Vancouver racquet wielders.

Victoria will have its most formidable players on the scene of action. Among those entered are: Marsh Gordon, Eric McCallum, Bud Hocking, Reg Corfield and Gerry Bowden.

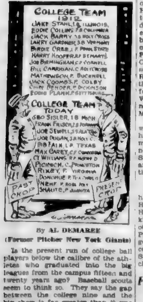
The women's contingent will have Marjorie Leeming, former Canadian champion; Hope Leeming, Interior titleholder; Mary Campbell, the defending champion; Helen Campbell, junior British Columbia champion; Velda Rithet and Marion and Marjorie McFarlane, of New Zealand. These, along with many other locals, are expected to furnish the invading forces plenty of opposition.

JUNIOR CHAMPS COMING

The appearance of Kyran Hynes, of San Francisco, Pacific Northwest champion, will be watched with interest. This youth has been playing marvelous tennis on the Coast, and many critics figure him as one of the most promising youngsters in the United States.

Entries for the tournament will close tonight at 7 o'clock with Secretary F. A. Jackson. In order that late mail entries will not be overlooked, the draw will not be made until tomorrow night.

Colleges Are Weak on Heavy Sluggers



By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Is the present run of college ball players below the calibre of the athletes who graduated into the big leagues from the campus fifteen and twenty years ago? Baseball scouts seem to think so. They say the gap between the college nine and the big show is far greater than it was two decades ago.

The Eastern colleges no longer turn out the ball players they did in the early days, with the exception of Holy Cross, which keeps feeding an endless chain of players to the majors.

Most of the college ball players today come from the South, Southwest and Far West with probably Alabama leading in this industry.

However, it is an open question and I will leave it with the fans to decide. Is the present crop of college ball players inferior to the old crop?

PRINCE'S VISIT TO U.S. FOR POLO GAMES

Heir to Throne Expects to Witness International Matches Between America and England

MAY WATCH LIPTON CUP COMPETITION

(Special to The Colonist)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Indications seem to point to the fact that the Prince of Wales will visit the United States next Summer, the principal object of his coming here being the international polo matches which will be played between America and England at Meadowbrook in September. In 1924, the last time that the scion of the Royal House of Windsor stopped in the United States, the excuse for his coming was his visit to his ranch in Canada. The Prince has indicated again that he will take a trip to Canada in 1930 and since polo is his favorite sport, it is probable that he will not miss the series.

SIR THOS. LIPTON

KEEN YACHTSMAN

Although polo is undoubtedly the magnet which would cause the Prince of Wales to detour by way of Long Island on his way to Canada, there is also to be an international yacht race. He has seldom shown much interest in yachting as a sport, but there is a strong possibility that he might think it fitting to represent King George at such a function for the King of England is a most enthusiastic yachtsman.

Sir Thomas Lipton, whose challenge will be met next Summer, would undoubtedly welcome the opportunity of having the Prince of Wales watch the manoeuvres of his newest Shamrock.

When Tommy Hitchcock leads his Big Four out on International Field a year from September, he will find facing him a British side that is several times better than was the hurriedly assembled quartette of five years ago. No longer is Great Britain sitting idly in the saddle while Yankee mallets carve victory.

The British have started early for a 1930 campaign. Captain C. T. Tremayne, the captain of the invading side, is already organizing a team. Although his handicap is only seven goals as compared with Hitchcock's ten, Tremayne is said to be one of the finest players ever developed on the other side. Several prominent British players have been mentioned as being practically on the team. These are Wing Com. P. K. Wise and Capt. W. S. McCreery. There is also that rather sensational Irishman, Capt. C. T. I. Roark, who did rather well when the Army-in-India bore the standard for England. Then there is Lord Wodehouse and a player who has never been in this country, Desmond Miller.

Not a player outside of Roark, who took part in the 1927 campaign has been mentioned. There are still many players in England who are never mentioned in the United States and several of them at least are capable of making an international side.

STATES ARE STRONG

Of course the United States also has plenty of talent, including Hitchcock, Guest, Harriman, Pedley, Hopping, Strawbridge, Cowdin, Wilkinson, Sanford, Iglehart and a few others. All in all it seems as if the Prince of Wales is due to see some good polo competition when he comes to the United States next Summer. The scores will be much closer than they were in 1924.

Famous Australian Cricketer Is Dead

SYDNEY, Aug. 1.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's)—One of the world's most noted cricketers in his time, Sidney Gregory, died today. He represented Australia in the great test matches more than any other player. He reached 100 in season's playing.

Gregory, who is not to be confused with J. W., another great Australian cricketer, first went to England with an Australian test match team in 1890. He followed in 1893-96-99, 1902-05-09, and thus served consecutively on seven test teams.

BIG SIX FIND THE GOING TOUGH

Ott Makes Only Gain of Day—Manush and Hornsby Get by Without Any Loss

The Big Six batsmen made almost no progress in their attempts to increase their batting averages yesterday. Ott's one-point advance from 321 to 322, gained from one hit in two official times at bat was the only progress of the afternoon. Manush and Hornsby each came out with unchanged marks, getting one hit in three attempts each. Babe Ruth's twenty-fifth homer of the year held his loss to two points, while Foxx and Paul Waner went hitless and lost more ground.

Jacobs stated Schmeling was ready to fight Sharkey September 19, but wants the fight held where at least 100,000 people can see.

Hope Leeming and M. Campbell Put Strong Vancouver Pair Out

Former Also Figures in Mixed Doubles Victory—Semi-Final Matches in All Events Are Billed for Today

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1. — Kurt Berndt, of San Francisco; Jack Tidball, Los Angeles; Laurason Driscoll, of San Francisco, and Ray Casey, San Francisco, entered the semi-finals of the men's singles in the Western Canadian tennis championship at the Vancouver Club this afternoon. In the ladies' singles Hope Leeming, Victoria; Dot Weisel, San Francisco; Marjorie McFarlane, New Zealand, and Golda Meyer Gross, San Francisco, survive.

Miss McFarlane will meet Miss Weisel in the semi-finals tomorrow, while Mrs. Gross will meet Miss Leeming. On the present play of Miss Leeming, the Victoria girl has a strong chance of eliminating Mrs. Gross, while Miss McFarlane will give Miss Weisel a hard run for the honors. In the men's singles, Berndt defeated Edmund Levy, San Francisco, in three sets.

The other singles were decided in straight sets, Jack Tidball putting out the last Canadian, Harold McLean, Vancouver; Laurason Driscoll defeating Hanna, of Hollywood, while Ray Casey had no trouble with Frank Gove, of Palo Alto.

MARJORIE McFARLANE WINS

Marjorie McFarlane, of New Zealand, played a steady, hard-driving game to beat Rosalie Ellis, of Vancouver, 8-6, 6-2, while Mrs. Gross entered the semi-finals in the other half by beating Miss Marlowe, of San Francisco.

K. Berndt, San Francisco, and A. S. Milne, Vancouver, went out of the men's doubles in straight sets to Phil Plymire and Gove, of San Francisco. Tidball and Hanna beat Tom Driscoll and Griffin, San Francisco. Casey and L. Driscoll accounted for Dixon and Peers, Vancouver, while Shields and Ryall, of Vancouver, are Canada's last hope in this event. They put out Radford and Muir, Vancouver, who, the previous evening, had eliminated "Wally" Bates and Edmund Levy. All of the doubles went only two sets.

LOCAL PAIR WINS

Hope Leeming and Mary Campbell, Victoria, scored a well-played two-set win over Mrs. Muir and Mrs. Ross, Vancouver, one of the strongest doubles teams in the tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

The feature in the mixed was the defeat of Ray Casey and Mrs. Ross by Mrs. Haggart and Williams, of the Vancouver Club. The scores were 8-6, 4-6, 7-5. Miss Campbell and "Bud" Hocking, Victoria, were stopped by Miss Leeming, Victoria, and Griffin, San Francisco, in two hard deuce sets.

City Hall Bowlers Take Second Game Of Series 17-16

The City Hall champion lawn bowling team gained revenge against the Civil Service aggregation in the second of a three-game series for the Mayor Herbert Anscomb Cup last night when they finished on the long end of a 17-16 score at the Beacon Hill greens.

The boys from across the Bay captured the initial game played early last month by a slight margin, but the City Fathers were in great form last night and just nosed out their opponents by one point after a hectic fray. Possessors of the trophy will be decided at the end of this month when the third and final contest will be played. Aldermen Cullin, Marchant, Dewar and Straith comprised the winning team.

OXFORD TENNIS STAR DEFEATED

Norman Farquharson Goes Down in Semis—University Doubles Team Loses at Seabright

SEABRIGHT, N.J., August 1.—Richard N. Williams II, Philadelphia tennis veteran, swept into the final round of the Seabright invitation tournament today, defeating Norman Farquharson, of South Africa, in a great international duel, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3.

Williams will try conclusions in the final with stalwart young John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal. The California southpaw smashed to victory over Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Texas, in the other half of the draw by the conclusive scores of 6-4, 6-4.

Continuing her masterful tennis, Helen Jacobs, America's second ranking player, advanced to the final round of the women's singles in which she is the defending titleholder, easily subduing Miss Marjorie Merrill, of Dedham, Mass., No. 6 in the national ranking list, 6-1, 6-2. The match was principally a baseline duel with Miss Jacobs having all the better of the exchanges.

The Berkeley girl, who is rated as the world's nearest approach to her fellow townswoman, Helen Wills, now has reached the final without dropping a set and with the loss of only eight games in three matches.

In an all-California final Saturday for women's singles honors, Miss Jacobs will face Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, America's third ranking player. Miss Cross won from a fellow San Franciscan, Mrs. Lawrence Harper, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, in the second semi-final.

In the semi-finals of the men's doubles, Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, and G. Mangin, Newark, defeated E. R. Avory and Russell Young, Cambridge University, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5.

McGRAW IS GIVEN GATE BY UMPIRE

Giants' Boss Protests Decision and Arbiter Tells Him to Close the Gate From the Outside

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The recent run-in between John McGraw and Umpire Magerkurth, former Coast League arbiter, was highly amusing, and it is being passed on to the fans in hopes of a few chuckles.

JOHN McGRAW

McGraw had shouted an adverse opinion on a third strike on Jackson which had retired the side and Magerkurth lost his goat.

Here's what followed:

Magerkurth (taking off his mask and protector and walking to the Giant dugout—You'll have to leave the park. Yes, you. I mean you, Mr. McGraw. Outside the park!

McGraw—Well, that's interesting. But why pick on me? There's Bobby over there laughing at you. How about throwing him out? (There is a long wait, and Mac starts out. The umpire resumes play and then notices that McGraw is still on the bench.)

Magerkurth (taking off mask and walking back to dugout)—Well, what about you? Get out!

McGraw—Why, you don't even know the rules. Don't you know you'll have to pull a watch on me? I can't take your word for an accurate check on the minute to which I am entitled. I want you to get the watch, otherwise I won't budge.

McGraw—Well, that's different. Now you're obeying the rules. We have to get these things straight. (Exit McGraw.)

IMPORTANT GAME BILLED TONIGHT

Plimley & Ritchie and Parfitt Bros. to Clash in Second Game of Softball Semi-Final

Plimley & Ritchie, "B" section winners, will take the field this evening at 6:30 o'clock, at Central Park upper diamond, against Parfitt Brothers, in the second game in the semi-final of the city softball championship, strong favorites to reach the final round.

After the contractors had put out such a formidable squad as Eurekas, 1928 titleholders, in the third round, they were favored to set aside the cyclemen's threat in the initial fray, but sadly fell by the wayside by taking a 13-4 drubbing.

In tonight's battle, "Chuck" Turner, one of the best moundmen in the city, will go to the hillock with hopes of making it two in a row over Parfitts. In the first game his puzzling twisters had the opposition swinging in vain, while his teammates played airtight ball behind him. Dave Stewart will complete Plimley & Ritchie's battery.

"Scotty" Dowds will take the slab for Parfitts with Gordie Chalmers on the receiving end. Bob Whyte and Barney Barnswell will be in charge. A third game will be played on Monday evening, if necessary.

"Sockem O'Reilley is a crossword puzzle fighter."

"What do you mean?"

Lester Patrick Takes No Chance; Holes Niblick Shot

LESTER Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers, and ex-pilot of the Victoria Cougars, apparently swings as mean a golf stick as he does a hockey stick. Yesterday he showed his stuff in a match with his sparring mate, Eddie McQuade. While Lester was carrying along a passenger in an eighteen-hole tussle with Southpaw McQuade, the trio reached the thirteenth with Lester and his passenger three down. It looked like one more was going to be the deficit, when Lester sliced into the woods and then hit a tree, short of the green. His passenger this time looked safe, but Colwood greens are very tricky, and Lester was leaving nothing to chance, and pulled out a mashie niblick and holed the shot from about 100 yards for a birdie three. After that the match was two down, but Southpaw McQuade was having no more nonsense and proceeded to take the next couple of holes to win the match, despite a terrific stand by Lester and his passenger.

Benny Leonard Picks Defending Champ to Win From' Canzoneri

Former Champion, in Summing Up, States That He Cannot See Where Challenger Has Chance Against Sammy Mandell

(This is the last of four preliminary stories by Benny Leonard on the Mandell-Canzoneri world's lightweight championship fight in Chicago tonight. A fifth story analysing the fight will be wired from ringside by Leonard, who retired undefeated as lightweight champion of the world. That dispatch will appear in this paper tomorrow.)

By BENNY LEONARD
Retired Undefeated Lightweight Champion of the World

(Copyright, 1929, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, and Tony Canzoneri, challenger, have finished their training and await the gong which will start them on their battle for the title in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. Both boys have come through in fine shape, and as Mandell has not weakened himself too much in his weight making, I pick him to win on points.

SAMMY MANDELL

Summing up everything, the relative ability of the two men as ring generals and boxers, I cannot see where Tony has a chance to win from the clever champion.

WORLD'S BEST BOXER

I believe Mandell is the very best boxer in the world today. That's a pretty broad statement, but if there is anybody who knows more about the art of hit and get away, who can defend himself so ably while tantalizing and punishing an opponent, I have not seen him.

I do not except even the clever Tommy Loughran in [illegible] statement. Mandell is the best stylist in boxing, just as Bobby Jones is the best stylist in golf.

There is little difference in the measurements of the lads under the tape, but there is a vast difference between them just the same. The tape shows that Mandell is a bit taller than Tony and that he has a little greater spread of arms, erroneously called "reach." But in girth of chest and limbs they are about even, though possibly Canzoneri might be a trifle thicker.

Tony is a smart boxer, but Sammy is much smarter. Tony is fast but Sammy is faster. I will not concede that Canzoneri has a stronger punch, although most of my readers will disagree. Tony hits harder but he does so because he is squattier or more set for punching than Mandell.

The champion didn't have as much of a task in getting to weight as I expected. He had no cinch getting down to the lightweight limit of 135 pounds, but he didn't weaken himself to the extent I had looked for.

NATURAL ADVANTAGES

Mandell, I believe, has too many natural advantages over his rival for Tony to win. I do not see how Canzoneri can [illegible] the combination of speed, ringcraft, experience, cleverness and all-round boxing ability which favor Mandell.

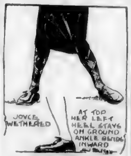
All Tony will have, not possessed in greater abundance by the titleholder, are stamina and gameness.

The left jab is one of the most useful punches known to boxing and Mandell is a past master of this. With it I expect to see him rip and tear Canzoneri, tossing him out of plumb, or slightly off balance so that Tony will be unable to get set for his best punches.

I look for the champion to open a couple of cuts over and under Canzoneri's right eye and I expect to see Tony's nose bleeding after a few rounds have elapsed.

I think this will be a one-sided fight, and if Canzoneri wins it will be a great big accident. I cannot see where Tony has a look-in, unless the fight ends in a foul, or one of the many accidents that can happen to a boxer in the ring under present conditions does happen. I have told you that Mandell is a "brittle-boned" athlete. So he is, but I do not think he'll break any bones in this fight with Canzoneri—either his own or Tony's.

Joyce Keeps Her Left Heel Way Down



JOYCE WETHERED
AT TOP HER LEFT HEEL STAYS ON GROUND ANKLE BENDS INWARD

By SOL METZGER

Although we are told that the left heel is raised off the ground as we take the club back for a long golf shot, not all stars do so. There is Miss Joyce Wethered, British women's champion, for example. She takes unquestioned rank as the greatest player of her sex ever produced, especially after her recent defeat of Miss Glenna Collett in the finals of the recent British women's event.

Miss Wethered doesn't take the left heel off the ground at all on her backswing. Instead, she leaves it there and, to relieve the up pull upon it, bends her left leg in toward the right at both knee and ankle.

The advantage in this scheme, if your ankle and knee are flexible enough to permit you to do it, is that it insures keeping the left foot in its right place as you come through on the downswing. Let us see in tomorrow's article how Bobby Jones starts his drive.

SONS OF CANADA TO MEET JOKERS IN CUP FIXTURE

Ball Teams Will Clash in Important Game Tonight—Lidstone and Parfitt to Twirl

McGAVIN TROPHY GOES TO WINNERS

WITH the McGavin Cup, which goes to the club finishing first in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League at stake, Jokers and Sons of Canada will meet at the Royal Athletic Park tonight at 6:15 o'clock. In addition to winning the silverware, the victors in tonight's battle will receive a bye in the play-offs for the city championship and the right to represent Victoria in the provincial play-offs.

The mound duty for the Jokers will be assigned to Dan Lidstone, while Ray Parfitt is expected to go to the slab for the Sons.

In their three previous battles the Jokers won the rubber, but to pick the winner of tonight's game is a task that would give the most dyed-in-the-wool ball fan plenty of thought.

DODGES DEFEAT BUICKS BY 16-15

Spring Second Upset in Garage Baseball League—Four Pitchers Used in Close Battle

Dodges sprang another upset in the Garage Baseball League last night when they defeated Buicks 16-15 at the Royal Athletic Park in a six-inning battle. Buicks put up a great fight in the [illegible] session and sent in four runners only to fall short of their opponents' total by a lone run.

Buicks sent over four runs in the first to the Dodges three but in the next inning the latter club chalked up five runs to Buicks one and took a lead which they never relinquished.

Miles started on the mound for Buicks but was yanked after the first inning in favor of Battison.

Bridgewood traveled five and one-third innings for the Dodges and was replaced by Hughes. Score by innings:

Dodges	3	5	2	0	4	2	16
Buicks	4	1	0	1	5	4	15

For years McLean has been one of the mainstays of the J.B.A.A. squad, and for several seasons he gained a place on the Victoria "Rep" team. McLean skippered the Bays for several seasons and last year he piloted them to the City championship. Although only slight in build McLean knew all the angles of the game, and his headwork carried the J.B.A.A. through many tough battles. Although regretting his departure, local followers will unite [illegible] him success in his new domicile.

Strong Field Will Play in Canadian Amateur Golf Meet

Dominion's Best Will Gather at Jasper Park This Month—Somerville, Carrick, Voigt and Chick Evans Will Compete

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—Judging by the entries received at the office of the Royal Canadian Golf Association on the eve of the closing date, keen competition is promised for the Canadian amateur golf championship, to be played on the Jasper Park golf course, Alberta, August 19 to 24. Some of the outstanding players whose entries have been received are: Phillip Armour, Chicago; C. Clark Corkrann, Baltimore; Eddie Held, New York, and William Lanman, Columbus.

George Voigt and Chick Evans have signified their intention of playing, but the official entries have not yet been received. The fact that the championship is to be played in the West this year has led to a strong entry of leading Western amateurs. Most of the provincial associations have entered teams for the Willingdon Cup interprovincial match to be played as part of the qualifying round of the amateur championship, August 19.

Some of the interprovincial teams, whose members also are entered in the amateur championship, are as follows

British Columbia—Four to be selected from Alfred Bull, J. D. Fraser, F. W. Wood Harry Jones Cecil Coville, R. Gelletly, Monty Hill and K. C. Allen.

Manitoba—A. A. Weir, C. MacWilliams, C. L. Hodgman and D. J. Kennedy.

Quebec—To be chosen from Norman M. Scott, G. C. Fraser, Hugh Jaques, A. B. Darling and W. M Hodgson.

The Maritime Provinces and Saskatchewan teams have not yet been chosen.

ENGLISH OPERA TRIED OUT AT COVENT GARDEN

Plot Follows Tale of Judith and Holofernes—Libretto by Arnold Bennett—Music by Goossens

CRITICS DISAGREE AS TO ITS MERITS

LONDON, August 1. — "Judith," which was given its initial production recently at Covent Garden and is the first opera by an English composer in a generation, has not been received with unanimous applause on the part of the critics. Alfred Kalisch, music critic of The Daily News and Westminster Gazette, says it is a "remarkable work for a first opera," and his criticism, on the whole, is favorable. The Times' critic is less lenient, particularly with the libretto, which was written by Arnold Bennett, author and journalist, and intimates that the opera left a general impression of monotony. The composer of the music is Eugene Goossens, well-known composed and operatic conductor. Mr. Kalisch says.

"The plot of 'Judith' is, or ought to be, familiar to everybody, for it follows the Biblical story closely. Mr. Bennett tells the story of the killing of Holofernes in terse, nervous English, based on the authorized version. He has not embroidered it with psychological subtleties. The story moves without deviation or episodes, irrelevant or otherwise, except a dance, to its appointed end. This is a great merit; but it has the disadvantage that it gives the composer but little scope for variety of mood or atmosphere.

"The music of Mr. Goossens is best described as being the vein of 'Salome' and 'Elektra.' The orchestra is masterly, and in spite of consistent sombreness, the music is never deficient in variety. Impending tragedy broods over it from the impressive menacing theme of the opening bars to the close. Even the dances have a sinister sound. The first impression is that the composer starts at such high pressure that it cannot quite be kept up in spite of his extraordinarily rich scoring and endless ingenuity in devising orchestral effects.

"The composer has set his singers a terribly severe task by reason of the very heavy scoring no less than by the rugged outline of his vocal phrases."

The Times describes the main theme of the opera "Judith," and says

"Mr. Goossens seizes it in the bald unison phrase announced immediately by his orchestra, the development of which through the course of the opera is its most interesting musical feature. The prophecy itself is delivered in recitative.

"So far, author and composer were at one, but Mr. Bennett seems to have considered that an Oriental theme should be provided with the usual tappings—a chief eunuch who should alternately rage and cringe, dancing girls who should heighten the sensuous atmosphere in which Holofernes is to be lured to his doom, and a long lyrical scene between the two principal characters culminating in Holofernes' exclamation, 'I will kiss thy lips and thou art mine; oh, fragrance!' But Mr. Goossens steeled himself against any relaxation of the austere attitude of mind with which he faced his task at the outset. His orchestra may sometimes soar into richly scintillating passages in which the resources of modern harmony are skillfully exploited, but the voices steadfastly resist all softening influences. The result is that through the entire opera everyone speaks in the same tone of voice, the tone appropriate to the opening prophecy. The voices are strictly confined to a single note to each syllable, and the persistence of monotone prevents the phrases from having even such character as is obtainable within those limits.

"The character of the chief eunuch was surely misrepresented theatrically as well as musically. A swarthy bearded gentleman, who might from his appearance have been own brother to Holofernes himself, he seemed determined not to lose his dignity at any cost, whereas the suggestion of the book was clearly that he should have no dignity to lose.

"This obliviousness to verbal suggestion accounts for the general impression of monotony which the opera left. Perhaps Mr. Goossens felt that Mr. Bennett was leading him into temptation, the temptation to do what other composers have done with similar situations and, resisting it, determined to leave characterization and expression to the orchestra."

Seattle to Tokio Nonstop Flight Is Now Proposed

TILLAMOOK, Ore., Aug. 1.—Plans for a nonstop flight from Seattle to Tokio, Japan, some time in August, were being retold here today by Bob Martin, Seattle aviator, employed by the Port Angeles Air Transportation Company, Inc., who announced the event yesterday.

Martin, accompanied by Russ Lawson, Portland, district governor of the National Aeronautic Association, flew here yesterday from Seattle to participate in an air circus. His announcement followed receipt of word that financial backing had been arranged. He said a group of Seattle men were back of the project but refused to divulge their names.

'JITNEY' PLANE FOR LONG TRIP

Hopes to Make Flight From Vancouver Next Week to Agua Caliente, California

PORTLAND, Aug. 1.—With 100 gallons of gasoline tucked away in a little "jitney" plane, Tex Rankin, Portland, will leave Vancouver, B.C., next week in an attempt to reach Agua Caliente, Lower California, in one hop, avoiding all contact with the United States. Announcement of the plans were made here today after what Rankin called a "premature announcement" had been made in Los Angeles yesterday.

The plane Rankin will use has a twenty-six-foot wing spread and normally carries two persons. One cockpit will be filled with gasoline tanks on the flight.

The engine is a four-cylinder 85-h.p. unit capable, Rankin says, of driving the plane twenty miles to the gallon of fuel. The distance from the border is a bit more than 1,300 miles. Rankin thinks he can make it in fifteen or sixteen hours.

An old actor-manager died, or at least his relatives thought he had died, and arrangements were made for the funeral.

On the appointed day one of his old colleagues arrived to pay his last respects, but to his astonishment, the would-be mourner was informed that "deceased" had come to life, after a period of coma.

"Just like Bill," said the visitor; "he was always a terror for rehearsals."

LOCAL HISTORY THAT EVERYBODY OUGHT TO KNOW

Enormous Sales of Keeno Amaze Merchants Here

Thousands Come Out With Statements Regarding This Marvelous Preparation

All history-making events are of an unusual nature. Whether history is made by wars, inventions or even by fashions a new era of achievement is recorded. History has been made in this city many times. While the endurance flights of aeroplanes have established new records and made history at other points, this city has built up a new "big sales record" in its trade annals.

The enormous sales of Keeno recently made have never been equaled by the sales of any other medicine of a similar nature. The reason for this is plain. Keeno does all and even more than is claimed for it. The people who take Keeno get well.

Nothing so clearly proves the value of Keeno as statements from people who have used it. The following statement is picked at random from a large number on file.

M. Alvargonzalez, of the Sun Life Insurance Co., Montreal, says: "I can't begin to tell you how much good Keeno has done for me. I feel like a different man. Before I took Keeno I had stomach trouble. My stomach had too much acid in it and my food would sour and taste like I had taken a drink of strong vinegar. I had dizzy spells and was constipated, too. I was so nervous I couldn't sleep good. Keeno built me up in a hurry. I am not constipated now and my stomach doesn't bother me. I am stronger and can do more work than I did before."

Try Keeno today. It has helped others and will also help you. Keeno is obtainable in Vancouver and Victoria at the Vancouver Drug Co. Ltd. Stores. (Advt.)

There is an old bridge saying that "anything can happen to a No Trump." This was particularly true in the "old days" when it was the accepted practice to bid No Trumps even when holding singletons and worthless doubletons, or in other words with a holding such as South's in the above deal.

The fact that South, in the present instance, bid a suit instead of No Trump did not keep him, however, from having a Grand Slam made against him by a clever play on the part of the Declarer (East). It goes without saying that had South ever anticipated such a possibility, he could have prevented a Grand Slam by leading out his Ace of Spades. Not foreseeing, however, he led the Queen of Clubs and adversaries took thirteen tricks.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

West doubles negatively, also in preference to a bid of No Trumps as his hand is well fitted to support any response by partner and as further adverse bidding, if any, can only give him valuable information should he finally elect to play the hand at No Trumps.

North passing, East takes out the double with two Diamonds, which effectively silences South, but not West, who now bids two No Trumps preferring the short game of three-odd to the long game of five-odd at Diamonds.

East, however, is not satisfied with No Trumps, has massed values and his extreme suit type of hand almost necessitating a rebid of Diamonds. West does not disturb this bid as his partner's rebid indicates a strong desire to play the hand at Diamonds rather than at No Trumps.

Contract — The bidding is cut short at Contract by East's bid of five Diamonds, showing at once both the character and strength of his holding. West does attempt a Slam following partner's pre-emptive response which he correctly assumes is based on massed and not distributed values.

THE PLAY

South leads initially the Queen of Clubs which East wins with the Ace in own hand to hold the King Ten in Dummy as a tenace over the Jack, which he infers South to hold because of his lead of the Queen.

East now stops to count the hand. Assuming the Jack of Clubs as placed in South's hand, East can count as positive three Club tricks, seven Diamonds and one Heart and can count as almost sure one Spade trick with the King, assuming South who bid Spades to hold the Ace. Thus East figures on 12 tricks in all.

With practically no chance, therefore, of failure to make his contract, except the remote possibility that South opened from the Queen-small of Clubs, East takes advantage of the Queen of Clubs opening to try for a Grand Slam.

A necessary preparation for this attempt is to first exhaust the Clubs from his own and Dummy's hand. East accordingly plays the Club 4 finessing the 10 which holds, and lays down Dummy's King. He next plays Dummy's Ace of Diamonds, followed by the Diamond 4, which he wins in own hand with the King. East now lays down his remaining Diamonds leaving him with the Jack and 2 of Spades and 10 of Hearts.

At the play of the last Diamond South is down to the Ace and Queen of Spades and the King and Jack of Hearts, one of which he must discard. Dummy is down to the King of Spades and the Ace-Queen-9 of Hearts. Consequently, whatever South discards, Declarer must make the remaining tricks. A Grand Slam is thus made by reason of the Squeeze on South, a possibility which presented itself immediately following the initial lead and the exposure of the Dummy.

WORLD SUPPLY OF MINERALS WILL RUN OUT

President of British Science Association Asks How World Will Live When All Ore Deposits Used Up

ALL MACHINERY REQUIRES METALS

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, July 31.—"The only two powers that can fight for long on their own natural resources are the British Empire and the United States, if they agree in refusing to export mineral products to countries that infringe the Kellogg pact, no war can last very long," declared Sir Thomas Holland, president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in his presidential address to the great scientific body here today.

Sir Thomas Holland is of Canadian parentage, his father being the late John Holland of Springfield, Man. He is president of the University of Edinburgh and one of the world's greatest geologists. During the World War he was president of the Indian Industrial Commission and of the Indian Board of Munitions.

The president, in his address, disposed of the popular theory that the Far East, when industrialized, would menace the supremacy of the white races. He stressed that China and other countries of the Far East are deficient in those essential deposits of minerals on which the mechanized form of civilization is based.

WHEN NO MINES ARE LEFT

Declaring that when the world's stocks of mineral, now being used up at a rapidly accelerating rate, were exhausted, civilization as we know it would no longer exist, Sir Thomas discussed the extent of the world's resources. He pointed out that the world had used more minerals in the last twenty-five years than in all previous history combined.

"For the present we can assume with fair confidence that, taking the world as a whole, the depletion of natural resources is not yet alarming, although the rate of acceleration by reason of its local variations, forces into prominence some international problems which will influence and, if effectively tackled, will facilitate the efforts to stabilise conditions of international relations," he said.

Nickel, in spite of its price and limited use, is twice as abundant as copper, five times as abundant as zinc, ten times as abundant as lead and from fifty to one hundred times as abundant as tin, Sir Thomas revealed. There are, among the so-called rare metals, some distinctly more abundant than lead, though this is the cheapest and is used at the rate of more than a million tons a year. These points indicated two things: First, the miner works only these deposits where the metal is concentrated sufficiently to make exploitation profitable; and second, the metalliferous ores vary greatly in the completeness with which they have been concentrated in special places to form workable deposits. Nickel, for instance, occurs under conditions which conspicuously hinder its freedom of local concentration and consequently its wide distribution is of little comfort to those anxious about their supplies of this metal, which jumps suddenly into importance with every rumor of war.

Sir Thomas said: "Every advance in metallurgical science and in mining technology that makes it possible to work out low-grade ores, adds appreciably to the acturial value of civilisation, for our mineral resources can be worked once and once only in the history of the world, and when our supplies of metalliferous ore approach exhaustion, civilization, such as we have now developed during the last century, must come to an end. When a miner raises a supply of ore in concentrated form for the metallurgist, he damages, and so places beyond reach for ever, far larger quantities of residual ore than he makes available for use. When a metallurgist takes over the product of the miner and separates the refined metal for use in the arts, he also incurs serious losses, although not to the same extent. There are thus before both the miner and the metallurgist opportunities for extending the actuarial value of civilization, and because the cost of labor is the principal constituent in the total bill, and has recently swamped contemporaneous advances in technology, the gradual elimination of manual labor by mechanization is obviously the most profitable line of research."

FINANCIER DEAD

Commits Suicide Following Nervous Breakdown Caused by Bereavements at Home

BLANKENEY, Nodfolk, Eng., Aug. 1.—Sir Drummond Drummond Fraser, prominent British banker and writer on financial subjects, was found in bed with his throat cut last night. A razor was lying nearby.

The inquest today returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind. Testimony revealed the banker had had a nervous breakdown in 1918 after the loss of his sons in the war. He was further depressed by the death of his wife and had entirely lost the use of his legs.

SUMMER SCHOOL ORCHESTRA ON THE AIR TONIGHT

Auntie Babs, who is known far and wide through her ability to entertain boys and girls, will delight the children of CFCT's audience at 5:30 o'clock this evening. The weekly half-hour for the kiddies will unfold another pleasant thirty minutes with the men and women of tomorrow.

The closing market quotations will follow this broadcast, and then the nightly hour with the Sunset Broadcasters will be presented from the local radio centre. The Sunset Trio is featured this evening, and an entertaining hour with the pleasing combination of violin, 'cello and piano will be enjoyed by a great number of radio enthusiasts. A collection of gems from Guiseppe Verdi's brilliant opera, "Rigoletto" will serve as the opening number, and then Schroeder's tone portrait of "Emperor Jones" will be offered. Franz von Blon's characteristic composition, "A Vision," is also included and will precede two short pieces—"Melancolie" and "Canzonetta." Selections from Victor Herbert's tuneful comic opera, "The Red Mill," will then be rendered for the approval of the audience of CFCT, while tonight's "Sunset" programme will be concluded with Diehl's concert waltz describing in music "The Rose of the Morning."

At 7:30 o'clock this evening, immediately following the nightly announcement period, the Department of Education's programme will originate in the studio of Victoria's radio station. This feature will doubtless prove of unusual interest to radio listeners for it will introduce the Summer School Orchestra to the invisible audience. The aggregation of musicians numbers twenty, and performs under the direction of Mr George Green.

CFCT's Friday evening programme will commence at 8:30, while the last broadcast for tonight will take place an hour before midnight. "Mikes" will be installed in the south ballroom of the Crystal Garden, and an hour of the last word in syncopation will be presented for the enjoyment of the radio listener. The dance programme will sign off, after completing another interesting series of broadcasts.

BACK TO JAIL

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—Louis E. Singer, K.C., goes back to jail as the result of the judgment of Mr. Justice Jeffrey today refusing to grant the writ of habeas corpus asked by Singer's counsel, W. F. O'Connor, K.C., following Singer's commitment for contempt of court by Gordon Waldron, K.C., Royal Commissioner investigating the Amalgamated Builders' Council. Shortly after noon the jail governor was on his way to take Singer into custody. H. P. O'Conner entered appeal and will ask for bail immediately.

MONTH-END SEES BULLS IN CONTROL

Despite Unfavorable Credit Conditions, Market of Late Has Shown Much Strength.

RISING MONEY IS HAVING EFFECT

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The stock market entered the new month today with aggressive bullish operations in full away in the utilities and major industrials, despite renewed credit stringency sending call loan rate to 12 per cent. With rising money, however, operators for the advance were unable to attract a public following and the day's turnover amounted to only 3,322,740 shares.

Retention of a 5 1-2 per cent rediscount rate by the Bank of England, and reports that Governor Norman had arranged a large credit with the Federal Reserve on his visit to America, from which he is now returning, tended to disperse for the moment the clouds which Wall Street has seen gathering over the international credit situation. The condition statement of the Bank of England, however, showed that recent losses of gold had reduced holdings well below the normal minimum of £150,000,000 and many bankers were inclined to believe an increase in the discount rate can now be only a matter of a week or two.

Further demand for the utility stocks was created by rumors of more large mergers in the making.

Detroit Edison shot up about 38 points and Brooklyn Edison nearly 20, to record levels. People Gas, Pacific Lighting, General Public Service, and International Paper & Power also reached record levels in wide gains. Stone & Webster transferred from the curb, sold up to 174 3-4, another peak, on disclosure of its treasury holdings.

United States Steel one more reached a new peak at 213 1-4, up nearly 4 points. American Telephone shot up 12 points.

Chemicals continued to rally, Columbian Carbon rising 14 points to 200. Coppers were well supported on reports of reviving foreign demand. Practically the only notable weak spot was Endicott Johnson, which sold off about 4 points to a new low for the year.

Sterling was well supported in view of the bank statement, with cables at 4 85 1-4. The Japanese yen again reached new high levels for the year.

Aside from a brisk last minute rally in American Telephone 4 1-2's the bond market developed few features. The advance in the telephone bond carried it to the new record price of 126 for a net gain of 8 1-4.

Railroad bonds held steady, but demand for most of the carrier obligations was only nominal.

STOCKS STILL MOVE FORWARD

New High Levels Attained by Many Individual Issues on New York Exchange

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Stocks continued to move forward in the early dealings and new high levels were attained by a number of individual issues. The chief influence for the early buying was the announcement that no change had been made in the Bank of England discount rate. Westinghouse and General Electric were in strong demand from the start and the latter issue soared to another new high level.

U.S. Steel continued as the leader in the steel group and registered a new high price level. Copper stocks were active and several issues in this group led by Anaconda advanced sharply. Strength of the coppers reflected the heavy foreign buying of the metal during the past month or so. Under the leadership of General Motors a number of issues in the automotive group trended a little higher, while a number of the rubber issues staged further price recoveries.

Talk of heavy inventories and a probable falling off in earnings of many of the rubber companies is believed to have attracted a large short interest, and the upturn in the latter stock today was undoubtedly accelerated by a goodly amount of short covering. Canning stocks showed good form and moved higher, while some of the rails showed a fair gain. Accumulation of Montgomery Ward was on an active scale throughout the session largely on prospects of higher earnings and excellent sales exhibit for the month of July.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, but funds were in good demand and the rate advanced to 12 per cent level. Calling of loans today approximated forty million dollars. The hardening in the money rate around midday acted as a check to bullish activity and attracted a fair volume of realizing. Early price gains of a number of issues were shaded somewhat, but the list as a general proposition absorbed the selling in an excellent manner.

In the afternoon session some excellent buying was attracted on the declines and the general list firmed up rather smartly. Utilities shares came in for considerable attention with American Telephone & Telegraph staging a sharp run up to around 280, a record. We are of the opinion that the various steel issues will continue to reflect excellent earnings and look for these issues to give an excellent account of themselves on the advancing side of prices.

Before making a lease with your tenant, whether for business or residence, ask yourself some questions.

* * *

In making leases the length of the term and the amount of the rental are usually considered together. The following questions enter into consideration:

1. What are like spaces in the same neighborhood renting for?
   (a) All conditions being equal, am I not entitled to the same rental?
2. Is it advisable to make a long or short term lease?
   (a) Are rents low now because of a depression?
   1. Should I rent now at a low rental to avoid vacancies?
   2. If I make a long term lease now will I not suffer when rents advance?
   (b) Are rents high now because of shortage of rental space?
   1. If I make a short term lease will I be able to rent again at the same or higher rental?
   2. If I make a long term lease, is it probable that rents will continue to increase?

Thus it will be seen that no general rule can be laid down for the length of the term of a lease or for the amount of rental. It is really the judgment of the owner, but it is probably safe to suggest that in a period or depression, when rents are low, the owner should fill vacancies at the current price but not on long term leases.

TORONTO MINES RACING UPWARD

PUBLIC ATTENTION ATTRACTED TO EXCHANGE AFTER SEASONAL DULLNESS

Buying Aggressive in Ajax Oil and Gas—Other Oils Relatively Dull for the Day

(Stobie, Forlong & Co.)

TORONTO, Aug. 1.—A racing upward movement in mines, the most spectacular this section of the market has seen in many weeks, and aggressive buying in Ajax Oil and Gas swung public attention to the Toronto Standard and Mining Exchange today after a seasonal dullness.

Noranda, keeping pace with Wall Street interests, gained $2.25 at mid-session before closing at $62, up $1. Noranda's subsidiary, Waite-Ackerman, a shipper, broke into the limelight with a sharp advance to $8.25, a gain during the session of $1.75. Sudbury Basin was the most prominent of the Lindsley group and appeared to be getting into stride for its expected run. The stock gained $9.30 high in mid-session and closed $8.90, a net gain of 15 points. Ventures made 50 to $8.50. Teck Hughes 10 to $8.30. Sherritt-Gordon was firm around $7.75, closing unchanged. Wright-Hargreaves, on reports that the mine is making a $30,000 profit monthly in development production and that work is proceeding under improving conditions, had a net gain of 13 to $1.88, after hitting a high of $1.95. Pend Oreille was active and steady at $6.50, closing unchanged.

Newbec, where development work is said to be proceeding in heavy mineralization, dropped 5 points to 47 cents after a mid-session gain of 6.

Howey gained 20 points to $1.23 in the most active session this stock has had for many months.

Amulet had a net gain of 4, closing at $2.88, after hitting a high of $3.04. It was heard that two more drills will be started on this property which will further determine the dimensions of the recently cut copper ore body. Big Missouri went through a spectacular scramble and stock gained 8 points early in the session and finally closed down 1 point at $1.65. Ajax led oils, gaining to $2.75, an advance of 15 points. Other oils were relatively dull, but no selling movement occurred.

Mining News

Associated—Have some success with Associated, but after backing off the drill rods and jarring the bit which has been stuck at the bottom of the Associated well, the crew is preparing to attempt to loosen it with left-hand rods, according to reports from the field. Hope is held that by twisting the bit in the opposite direction from which it is ordinarily worked, it may be loosened and pulled out.

McLeod No. 4 drilling at 1,340 feet in the lime and at a total depth of 5,045 feet, is reported to have an increased flow of gas. The present flow is said to be sufficient to blow the cutting up as drilling proceeds, thus eliminating work with the bailer which had become difficult owing to the gas pressure.

Nordon No. 1—In the same field, according to reports from the well on Tuesday. The well is reported to have a steady flow of gas. Boilers are being installed for the Kamoriey well at the west end of the Morley structure. Government supervising test on Devenish.

Turner Basin—Turner Basin in the north end of Turner Valley, was drilling steadily at 1,510 feet, according to information from the field last night. This well, which is located less than half mile west of the producer Foothills No. 1, struck a small flow of gas at 1,475 feet. The flow has increased during the last day or so and is regarded as a highly favorable mark.

Sterling Pacific, in the south end of Turner Valley, was reported drilling steadily at 3,200 feet at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Drilling with the diamond drill is reported proceeding steadily at Home No 3 with the bit down 3,080 feet and about twenty-seven feet in the lime.

Whitney Letter

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Whitney says today:

Yesterday's session used midday to get rid of the temporary dip which was coming to it and having thus eliminated what little need there was for correction, is now ready to run right up over the weekend before it again encounters any necessity for even minor corrective reaction. The new high record which is now firmly established in the industrial averages will be followed shortly by a corresponding record in the rail group, and with the latter group some five or six points below its top. I believe it will pay to give more attention to the rails while they are cheap. In so far as money is concerned, I do not think that the market is going to pay any more attention to it than it did today simply because those who back their opinions with substantial buying orders have come to expect a normal tightness around month-end periods. Likewise I do not believe there is any disturbance to be found in brokers' loans as the published figure approximated general expectations. The procedure, therefore, is to use what interday dips come as a means of buying recommended issues for substantially higher prices.

United States Steel and General Electric continue to give the highly satisfactory performance which has been expected of them for some time past. While American and Foreign Power is simply digesting temporarily a rather rapid advance, General Electric has obviously advanced too far from levels where originally recommended to permit of any other advice than that you simply hold it for 400 but Steel can still be bought on every dip to around 210 and A.F.W. just so long as it remains in the range between 134 and 140. The copper group is developing in just about the way you were advised it would, and I believe that August will witness an advance in the price of the metal which will be confined to fractions. Expect the establishment of the 20c price before the month-end. Anaconda is of course, the rightful leader and likewise the best medium for commitments. Buy it before it crosses 120 as it is not going to take long to add 20 points to that price. Expect American Smelters to assume secondary leadership with a move covering about the same number of points.

In the rails, if you cannot get St. Paul preferred under 60, then pay a little more for it, also continue to buy Erie before it crosses 85 and New Haven before it crosses 115. In the utilities Electric Power & Light and National Power & Light are the outstanding opportunities—continue to use current prices to buy them as well as Worthington Pump Remington Road, Famous Players and Sears Roebuck.

Curbs—Grigsby Grunow has declined on its report covering operations for the fiscal year ending June 30. This report does not represent what the company is doing at the present time, so take advantage of whatever remains of the decline to buy it.

She—"Will you love me when I'm old?"

He—"Must I wait as long as that?"

MARKET TAKES A HEAVY LOOK

WHEAT WEAK DURING FIRST HALF HOUR OF WINNIPEG SESSION

Market Surprises by Becoming Very Bullish on Reports of Buying by Chicago Interests

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—Wheat was weak during the first half hour with prices breaking 2 1-4 under the previous close. Liquidation was in evidence and the market looked heavy, as though the buying power was played out, but the unexpected happened, the local crowd becoming very bullish on reports that Chicago interests were buying up wheat, and prices advanced sharply, climbing 4 5-8 from the October low.

There was excellent outside buying of the May future which came on the board this morning for the first time, opening at 168 1-2. Elevator companies were buying December and selling May at 4 to 4 1-2 cents spread. Sellers of yesterday and early this morning were again reinstating their long lines. Much higher prices were freely predicted but export business continues very slow and the market needs more outside support, despite bullish sentiment.

In the cash market most interest was shown in Nos. 3 and 4 grades, local shippers being best buyers. Nothing was done overnight in direct export. Local exporters were taking the odd lots of 5 and 6 wheats at spreads somewhat easier than yesterday. Demand was generally pretty fair for all grades excepting 1 and 2 Northern. Millers report flour demand slow, with no chance of any export business. The weather map shows no rains over the Canadian West, while temperatures were extremely high. Apparently there is no rain relief in sight.

The local market is probably a little overbought, but there is little reason to sell wheat, and we advise purchases on recessions. Winnipeg futures closed 1 5-8 to 2 1-4 higher.

Coarse Grains: These markets were all strong and higher in sympathy with the strength in wheat and corn. No export business was confirmed today and domestic demand was rather slow. Oats closed 2 1-2 to 1 3-8 higher, barley 1 cent up, and rye 1-4 to 3-8 higher. Flax market was again strong with little scattered speculative buying going on while offerings were very light. Closing prices 2 1-4 higher.

Ticker Forecast

(B.C. BOND CORPORATION, LTD.)

(B.C. Bond Corporation, Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—United States Steel's situation is worth discussing again even if our bulletins have discussed this particular issue at very frequent intervals. Steel, indeed, satisfied all those who held on to this issue and at yesterday's levels no one who continued long on the stock had justification to complain of what price he paid for it. The report for the first half year was discussed widely in all newspapers, but many angles of the situation have been overlooked by most of the writers on this topic. Some newspapers said that Steel earned $5.91 in the second quarter, our service yesterday stated that Steel's earnings were $6.67 per share. Our tabulation was based on the number of shares outstanding during the quarter which was 7,116,900, against 8,030,000 mentioned by some newspapers. It is true that the present number is the highest figure, but at the time when these earnings were made the additional 1,080,000 were not in existence except in the last few days of the month, and the income from the sale of these shares brought no profit to the company during the past quarter. The earnings for the first six months, therefore, have to be computed on the basis of 7,116,000 shares. The increase in the number of shares brought additional capital to United States Steel, and this, together with resources on hand will be used to pay off about $270,000,000 in funded indebtedness. It is known that the corporation figured only about 4 per cent income on its cash resources, and the paying off of its indebtedness will increase the net available for dividend on the common stock to a considerable extent. The company will also free itself of sinking fund charges and we therefore believe that United States Steel will be able to show about $24 per share this year. When the capital readjustment is completed a split-up on a basis of three for one is expected. For the time being we understand that a goal of 235 has been set for Steel and purchases should be made now.

American & Foreign Power — While a conservative valuation of this issue fails to justify the current levels, the public enthusiasm for American & Foreign Power continues unabated, and we understand that the pool operators in this issue are in control of the situation and plan to put the stock on a higher plane. It reached the old high yesterday and large blocks were turned over at the top prices. A position on this issue involves considerable risk, but for the time being the forces that expect to bring it up to new high planes are able to make good on their promise. We understand that the stock is being pushed to levels of about 160 and a trading position is recommended.

The bullish demonstration in the leading favorites suggests a return of confidence among the big operators and the anticipation of broader public participation in the market. The fact that the advance began on a Wednesday when the market usually becomes unsettled in fear of adverse developments on Thursday, when the Federal Reserve Board calls its weekly meeting, and the brokers' loans statement is published, indicates a belief that Monday's reaction corrected the situation to a sufficient extent to warrant a renewal of commitments. Here and there nervous selling will be in evidence today, but offerings should find takers and stocks should once more move from weak into stronger hands. That the month ended without undue rise in call rates was highly gratifying. A flurry in money may develop today because in addition to approximately $300,000,000 for interest and dividends, about $140,000,00 will be paid out to bondholders on called issues, chief among these being the $13,000,000 of Anaconda. Within a day or so these tremendous funds will again be available for stock market purposes, and a goodly portion of loans made recently by traders will be paid off from the proceeds of the retired bonds and dividends and interest received today. The outlook for money is therefore improving and today's unsettlements in the money market should be totally ignored. Brokers' loan may show a new record but this should also have but a small influence on the general trend. As said above some of these loans will be paid off from today's receipts. The fact remains that every big and small corporation reports not only record-breaking earnings, but also excellent prospects for the future. United States Steel, for example, is operating at 100 per cent capacity, which practically never happened before in July excepting during the war period. The situation in other branches is similar and with the continuation of high earnings sound securities should command higher prices.

Pacific Lighting reports a net profit of $8,596,000 for the year ended June 20, 1929, as compared with $5,809,000 for the same twelve months a year ago. The capitalization since then has been increased but the earnings per share, nevertheless, show improvement.

American International, being an investment trust, is highly sensitive to market movements. During the recent recession American International declined considerably, but yesterday it developed strong tendencies and is headed for higher levels.

New York Central recovered more than ten points from the low it recorded early this week. This speedy recovery shows that there is no reason for getting panicky on a stock like Central. Though subject to fluctuations the under structure of this issue is still healthy, so that it needs but little buying to bring it back to the top.

Westinghouse Electric is undergoing the same process which all other issues that have crossed 200 experienced. It is backing and filling within a narrow range of around ten points of the previous high, but yesterday displayed all the earmarks of getting ready for a new advance. Westinghouse is now being groomed for a price of 240 and surely is entitled to these levels.

TRADE RESISTS BAD SITUATION

Despite Low Price of Wheat and Money Tightness, High Business Level Is Maintained

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—"In the early months of 1929 there were a number of factors in the Canadian business situation, such as the low price of wheat and the tightness of money, which seemed to portend at least a minor recession in business activity for the balance of the year, but, somewhat contrary to general expectations, business and industry have continued at a high level throughout the Spring and early Summer," says the monthly business review of the Royal Bank of Canada.

"With the severe credit strain somewhat relieved and with wheat prices at a much more satisfactory level, there is no question but the prospects for the remainder of the year have shown substantial improvement. The confidence that profitable wheat prices will be obtained for the coming crop has done much to offset the gloom caused by the decrease in the size of the crop," says the report.

Fruit Prospects Promise Fairly If Prices Hold

VERNON, Aug. 1. — The bright, warm weather is fast ripening the tomatoes, cucumbers, peaches and apricots. Wednesday was the first time this season when it was possible to fill all orders for semi-ripe tomatoes. A reduction of supplies consequent on the Summerland fields going to drought may firm the price between $1.25 and $1.00. Cucumbers may also reach the dollar mark. Supply is more nearly meeting demand as regards potatoes, and the situation, in this field of operations, is somewhat changed.

The situation regarding the main apple crop is generally considered fair. The indications are that there will be a fairly good crop of highly-colored apples and if the prices hold up, many growers will be much better off at the end of the season than they were at the end of the 1928 marketing year.

HOME OIL NO. 3 HAS BLOWN IN

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1.—With a flow of 7,000,000 feet of gas, Home Oil Co.'s No. 3 blew in this morning at forty-five feet in the lime. This is the greatest flow at this depth in the lime that the Home wells have encountered.

Home No. 2 well is getting good production at 169 feet in the lime, and Home No. 1 at 172 feet. It was stated at the office of the company today that drilling would be carried on at No. 3 to a greater depth.

Wall Street Journal

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

Stocks maintained a vigorous upward trend today notwithstanding a severe pinch in the demand loan market. Large requisitions were made on Wall Street money supply to meet the record month-end dividend and interests disbursements.

These withdrawals caused an advance in the call money rate first to 11 per cent and then to 12 per cent from the renewal charges of 10 per cent.

For a time a further stiffening to 15 per cent was threatened, but some of the most powerful lending institutions in the financial districts stepped into the breach with substantial offerings and the situation was relieved.

Meanwhile the stock market ignored the credit stringency. Urgent demand was in evidence for high grade issues throughout the list and the forward movement went ahead with an aggressiveness which could hardly have been more marked if call money had been freely supplied at 6 per cent.

Sir John Adams, the noted English educator, said at a dinner in New York:

"Our young people admit that their morals are rather—er—modernist, but they lay all the blame on their fathers and mothers. They account for this queer attitude with many plausible reasons. All the same, they remind me somewhat of little Jimmy.

"Little Jimmy, against his father's warning, started to climb up on a table.

"'Don't climb up there,' his father said. 'If you do, you'll fall, sure.'

"But Jimmy climbed up, and then down he fell.

"As his father lifted him to his feet and wiped the tears from his eyes, Jimmy bawled:

"'It's all your fault—boo, hoo—for not catching me. Why didn't you catch me? You knew I was going to fall—you said so.'"

Tim Healy—or to give his formal name and title—T. M. Healy, K.C. (King's Counsel) and first Governor-General of the Irish Free State—possesses a native Irish wit that was at once the envy and dismay of his political opponents during the many years he sat in the House of Commons as an Irish member. It was devastating. For instance, when an English member asked how many horses were sent to South Africa during the Boer War, Tim Healy interjected: "And how many asses?"

"What can beat a good wife?" asks a correspondent.—Any husband who is strong enough.

DEATHS FROM CANCER INCREASE IN STATES

NEW YORK, July 30.—A steady increase in the rate of deaths from cancer in fifty representative American cities, ranging from 71.6 for each 100,000 of populatoin in 1906 to 117 in 1928, is shown by Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician, writing in The Spectator insurance journal. As a cause of death in this country cancer ranks second only to diseases of the heart.

According to this article, eighty of the 143 cities under review showed an increase in the rate of deaths in 1928 over 1927, while sixty showed a decline.

Mr. Hoffman makes no attempt to explain the increase, nor does he suggest any formula to account for the marked increase or decline in certain localities. He points out that the general rate in the United States is lower than that of Great Britain, Switzerland or Denmark. The rate in Denmark, which is the highest on record, was 140 deaths per 100,000 in 1927.

In a table giving the death rate from cancer and other malignant tumors in 1920 and 1925, arranged according to ages and sexes, Mr. Hoffman points out that the death rate during that period between the ages of forty-five and fifty-four, both sexes, increased from 173.8 to 187.7; at ages fifty-five to sixty-four, from 394.4 to 434.9; and at ages seventy-five and over, from 974.1 to 1,138.3. In general, the mortality from cancer has been greater among females than among males.

Of the cancer deaths in 1925, the greatest number came from cancer of the stomach. Cancer of the liver and gall bladder, and cancer of the intestine were next in the order of mortality.

In concluding, Mr. Hoffman says: "By every standard of mortality investigation these figures are absolutely conclusive as evidence that the actual mortality from cancer in proportion to population is rapidly increasing, irrespective of the tremendous progress which has been made in the treatment of the disease."

HALL PRESENTS RIOT OF COLOR

FINE DISPLAY OF BLOOM SEEN AT BAMBERTON SHOW

Mrs. R. P. Butchart Performs Opening Ceremony at Annual Exhibition—Full List of Awards

BAMBERTON, Aug. 1. — The Recreation Hall at Bamberton presented a riot of color on Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being the annual flower show, which was opened by Mrs. R. P. Butchart, who congratulated the exhibition on their excellent display.

The Bamberton Trio played several selections during the afternoon while tea was being served on the wide verandah

Those who kindly acted as judges were Mrs Gordon, Mr E. W White, of the Department of Agriculture, and Mr. Robinson.

In the evening a very enjoyable dance was held, excellent music being supplied by Professor Heaton's Orchestra.

SCOUTS RETURN FROM CAMP BYNG

NANAIMO, Aug. 1.—The First Nanaimo Troop of Scouts returned yesterday from Camp Byng. Troop Leader Albert Bain reports that the First Nanaimo Troop did exceptionally well in gaining proficiency badges The camp Scoutmaster, Mr Wootten, who is supervising Camp Byng, congratulated the troop on the sportsmanlike attitude displayed by the boys from Nanaimo Lack of the necessary instructors to pass the boys' proficiency badges has so far held local boys back, but on going to Camp Byng, where instructors are numerous, the boys found, much to their delight, that they could more than hold their own Well-balanced menus, and excellent cooking, combined with properly supervised swimming, boating, games, hiking, etc., kept the boys healthy, and combined the business of scouting with pleasure of a holiday which they thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Harkness, assistant provincial secretary and trained nurse at the camp, and Mr Wootten, deserve much credit for the manner in which they brought out the best in the boys and made camp life enjoyable.

A woman driver ran into another vehicle and bent a mudguard. It worried her, so she went to a garage and asked the mechanic

"Can you repair this mudguard so that my husband won't know it has been bent?"

The mechanic looked at the bent mudguard and then at the woman, and replied

"No, madam, I can't. But I can fix it up so that in a few days you can ask your husband how he bent it."

WAITERS AGAINST TIPPING

At the International Bureau held recently in Paris, waiters of Europe were unanimous in protesting against the system of the "tip." They wanted their wages stated, and that no tips shall be expected from customers. At present in all Continental countries there is the demand of 10 per cent on the hotel bill for services, but guests have found that they must tip as before, and resent the system of an imposition.

Several snow storms were reported on the East Coast of Scotland late in June.

Local Vessel Badly Damaged In Dock Fire

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 1.—Badly burned in the Union Steamships dock fire on Saturday, the Brackman-Ker Milling Company's freighter Grainer is here for repairs. About $2,000 worth of damage was done to the vessel which will be repainted before again entering service.

Built at Victoria in 1909 by Mr. D. J. Butler for the Butler Towing & Freighting Company, the Grainer is a wooden steamship of 144 tons gross and eighty-eight tons net. She is 100.5 feet long, twenty-three feet in beam and eight feet deep. Power is furnished by a two-cylinder steam engine of nineteen registered horsepower.

The construction of two fast vessels for interisland trade in the Philippines was voted by the stockholders at today's meeting and when favorable word is received from Washington on future mail contracts, Mr. Dollar said, an extensive programme of expansion will be announced.

Ms. Pacific Exporter, Capt. C. E. Holland, was 350 miles off San Francisco at 8 o'clock last evening, en route here from the United Kingdom. She is expected on Saturday with 160 tons of cargo and two passengers.

Ss. Salvage Queen, Capt. J. Newcom, left for Blayney's early yesterday morning to take on bunkers.

Ms. Margaret Johnson passed out to sea at 9 o'clock last evening. Ss. Santa Maria followed at 11 p.m., according to Federal Pilots.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as given above.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

BREMEN OBTAINS ANOTHER RECORD

Beats Time of Mauretania Across Atlantic by Over Eight Hours

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 1.—The German liner Bremen, flagship of the North German Lloyd fleet, today took from the British liner Mauretania its last North Atlantic crossing record, besting by 8 hrs. 17 mins. the Mauretania's previous fast time from New York to this port.

The Bremen docked here at 2:25 a.m., having used 4 days 14 hrs. 30 mins. for its trip from Ambrose Lightship to Eddystone Light. The average speed was 27.91 knots per hour and its maximum day's run was 667 miles. The previous best record of the Mauretania listed here was 4 days 22 hrs. 57 mins., in September, 1924.

Just as the Bremen's westward voyage last week was its maiden trip in that direction, so the voyage completed today was its first eastward crossing. Both crossings resulted in records. On the westward trip from Cherbourg the ship needed 4 days 17 hrs. 42 mins. to reach New York, 8 hrs. 52 mins. better than the previous record of the Mauretania.

Glider Records Are Smashed by Austrian Fliers

GERSFELD, Germany, July 31.—Robert Kronfeld, of Vienna, today established two new world records for gliders. He flew a distance of 102 miles and established an altitude record of 9,780 feet. Pilot Greenhoff established a new glider record for machines carrying a pilot and passenger when he reached an altitude of 4,075 feet and covered a distance of twenty-four miles.

BOOK TO FEATURE VICTORIA SCENES

Will Publish Views and Description of City—Due to Publicity Bureau

Col. A. E. Powell, the well-known American writer of books of travel, who has left for Alaska as a part of his tour of Canada to gather material for a book on the Dominion, has stated to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau that he intends to devote a large section of space in this volume to the city of Victoria.

The book will be profusely illustrated with beautiful photographs, and it is Colonel Powell's intention that at least eight or nine of these will be views of Victoria and the surrounding country. It was owing to the activities of the publicity bureau that Colonel Powell included Victoria in its itinerary.

WEST COAST SERVICE

The steamer Princess Norah will leave for Port Alice and way ports at 11:00 p.m. every Saturday.

The steamer Princess Maquinna will leave for Queen's Cove (Esperanza Inlet) and way ports at 11:00 p.m. every Wednesday.

Club's Mascot Rescues Child From Drowning

JACKIE Rogers, twelve-year-old mascot of the James Bay Athletic Association, yesterday rescued a five-year-old boy from drowning off the J.B.A.A. float at the Gorge.

The boy, whose name could not be learned, paddled across the Gorge on a frail raft to the club float at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Insufficient to support his weight with safety, his craft tipped over, precipitating him into the water.

Hearing loud cries for help, partly muffled through a stomach full of water, Jackie Rogers jumped off the float fully clothed and brought the boy to shore kicking and struggling, just as he was going down for the third time.

Before resuscitation could be used the boy recovered and ran away from his rescuer as fast as sturdy legs could carry him.

LOAD LINE RULES WILL BE REVISED

British Board of Trade Concerned With Overloading of Ships

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The Daily Mail today said the British Board of Trade, fresh from its verdict of condemnation in the Vestris disaster, would consider immediately whether new regulations for surveillance of passenger ships were necessary.

The paper also said that a great advance in safety measures against overloading might be expected shortly, and that an expert committee appointed by the Board of Trade has almost completed revision of regulations governing the position of the load line so that they may be brought up to date soon.

Marine Notes

Ss. Dalworth, now loading 1,300,000 feet of lumber at Ogden Point for Saint John, will get away at noon today, according to King Bros., shipping agents.

Radio Club

The regular meeting of the Victoria Radio Club will be held on the last Friday of the month, instead of the first.

Man (at the club)—"I say, you fellows, my wife went off to see her mother, intending to stay for six weeks, but I brought her home in a hurry. Do you know what I did? I sent her a paper every day with a paragraph cut out, and she was so full of curiosity to know what news I was keeping from her that she came home at the end of four days."

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

CAPITAL SHIP MAY BE BANNED

LARGE TYPE OF BATTLESHIP TO BE SUBJECT OF CONFERENCE

Officials of U.S. State Department Decline to Comment on Matter

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Secretary Stimson and officials of the State Department declined today to comment on reports from London that the abolition of the capital ship would be brought up at a conference called to deal with that type of vessel.

It was said here on the highest authority, however, that nothing was known of any suggestions for the total abolition of the capital ship as a fighting unit.

Any informal discussions regarding capital ships which have taken place between representatives of the naval powers since the Washington Arms Conference of 1921 are understood to have been confined to questions relating to reduction of the present limits of tonnage and the extension of age limits.

Mention has been made during these highly informal talks, it was said, of the proposal put forward by the British delegates at the tripartite naval conference of 1927 that the age of capital ships be extended from twenty to twenty-six years, that the tonnage maximum be reduced from 35,000 tons to something under 30,000 tons, and that a 13.5-inch gun be substituted for the present 16-inch gun.

Beyond these informal discussions, which have not been official in character, nothing has been discussed regarding the future of the capital ship.

CHARTERS SHIP FOR LONG TRIP

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson to Lead Pilgrimage to Jerusalem in March

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, California evangelist, has chartered the liner Republic and will lead a tour to the Mediterranean and Holy Land, leaving New York on March 20, 1930, according to word received here by Mr. A. P. Chapman, Jr., agent here for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway.

Passengers will have the option of leaving the ship at Naples and stopping over in Europe, returning aboard the George Washington, America, President Harding or President Roosevelt.

The fifty-two-day cruise includes stops at Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers, Tunis, Athens, Constantinople, Alexandria, Haifa, Jerusalem, Naples and Monaco.

Six days will be spent at Jerusalem visiting Mount Zion, the Palace of Caiaphas, the place of the Last Supper, the wailing place of the Jews, Solomon's quarries, the tombs of the kings, the Garden of Gethsemane, Bethlehem, Jericho, the Dead Sea and River Jordan.

Fliers Receive Decorations for Air Refueling

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The distinguished Flying Cross was awarded today to Captain Lowell H. Smith, of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Lieut. John P. Richter, of Virginia, army air corps officer, as pioneers in establishing the practicability of refueling airplanes in flight. Their feat was performed in June, 1923, when they refueled in the air for 37 hours and 15 minutes.

Ss. Sheafmead left Chemainus at 6 o'clock last evening and arrived at Ogden Point docks at midnight. She will commence loading lumber for the East Coast at 8 o'clock this morning.
